'CAN DO' BOYS GET TRIBUTE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—This is the day the Navy pays tribute to the "can do" boys.

It is the fifth birthday of the fighting Seabees, the Navy's construction gangs who helped to clear a path to victory.

The Seabees—the name comes from the initials C. B., standing for construction battalion, are only 7,000 in number now as compared with a wartime peak strength of 250,000.

But the outfit is a part of the regular Navy and is a skilled nucleus around which a new Seabee force could be built in case of emergency.

The first Seabee regiment was activated on Dec. 28, 1941, when the wreckage at Pearl Harbor symbolized the herculean task awaiting the nation's armed forces.

Welders, carpenters, road builders, mechanics, and artisans representing more than 60 trades signed up to do a job for the Navy.

Many of the "boots" were middle-aged. They left lifelong trades to contribute their know-how to the nation in its time of need.

The Seabees were famous for speed as well as for skill and courage.

The "can do" outfit took part in every major invasion and occupation.

Often they crawled from their bulldozers to blaze away at enemy snipers. Their casualty lists were almost as high as their morale.

The Seabees' wartime chief was Admiral Ben Moreell, now coal mines administrator. The present boss is Admiral John J. Manning, chief of the bureau of yards and docks.

De Gaulle Is Not French Candidate

PARIS, Dec. 28—Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared today that he could not be considered a candidate for the presidency of France.

It was the first official utterance of the French wartime leader since Oct. 11 when he urged the defeat of the present constitution.

De Gaulle declared:

"I do not believe in conscience that it would be right for me to serve my country if I pretend to become the guarantor of a constitution which establishes this regime, and preside powerless in a powerless state."

De Gaulle's statement, issued through his liaison office in Paris, added:

"In duty to France and in respect for the republic, I have made known at proper time that in my opinion government by parties such as they are among our people cannot solve the very grave problems—internal, colonial and foreign—on which our very lives depend."

In attacking the present French constitution preceding last Fall's referendum, De Gaulle had demanded a document which would provide for a strong executive.

Actually De Gaulle's name has been little mentioned in speculation over the election of a president next month. His nomination would certainly have provoked vigorous opposition by the Communist and Socialist parties.

'SNIPPER' IS BEING HUNTED IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Cops and policewomen of the nation's capital were on the hunt today for "Jack-The-Sniper," who whacks hanks of hair from pretty girls on Washington trolley cars.

Three times in the last 24 hours the peculiar character has operated. He twice has snipped souvenirs from shoulder-length tresses and once has helped himself to nine inches of a schoolgirl's pigtail.

Maj. Harvey G. Callahan, superintendent of police, warned that the hair bandit may be a potentially dangerous sex maniac and Dr. Winfred Overholser, head of St. Elizabeth's hospital, said "there always is the chance of violence in such cases."

BURGLARIES OF I. SMITH HULSE HOME SOLVED

Sheriff's Department Holds Two Men In Case; Loot Is Recovered

Two men were in jail Saturday accused of three burglaries in recent weeks the home of I. Smith Hulse, Route 2 Circleville, in Jackson township.

The arrests were made Friday night by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Carl Radcliff.

The prisoners are: Everett Estep, 26, trucker, Route 2, Circleville, and Garfield A. Stewart, 24, Route 2, Sunbury.

Loot recovered, the sheriff and deputy said, included all kinds of furniture, rugs, dishes, bed clothing, linens, electric heater, rifle, two pistols and other household furnishings and equipment. Sheriff Radcliff said the auto load of loot recovered represented most of the items taken from the home during the three burglaries in recent months.

The sheriff said the items recovered were found in the homes of Stewart at Sunbury and Estep's residence in Jackson township.

Charges against the two men will be faced before the grand jury, which is scheduled to be convened Jan. 6.

CHIEF ISSUES RIFLE WARNING

Boy Shot In Hand By Gift Airgun; Parents, Children Informed Of Laws

Warning to parents against permitting children under the age of 17 years to shoot air rifles was sounded Saturday by Police Chief William F. McCrady.

The police chief's warning followed the wounding of a 13-year-old Circleville boy Friday night by another lad, also aged 13. The two quarreled over a dog and one youngster pulled the trigger of an air rifle, the leaden pellets entering the hand of the other lad. The wound was not serious.

Pointing out that many boys received air guns from Santa Claus for Christmas, Chief McCrady cited the danger in permitting under-age boys to use the weapons.

He emphasized that a state law bans the sale of air rifles and the pellets to anyone under 17 and also prohibits the firing of an air rifle by anyone under that age. The state law provides a maximum penalty of $100 fine or 30 days in jail, or both.

HOUSING PLANS TO BE SETTLED THIS WEEKEND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—A top-level conference on the fate of the veterans' temporary housing program is scheduled for this weekend at the national housing agency.

NHA Administrator Raymond Foley told reporters he will meet with Dillon Myer, federal public housing authority head, to determine whether efforts will be made to complete the program. He said an announcement can be expected early next week.

The FHFA has revealed that the program, which called for 200,000 temporary apartments or a larger number of apartments and dormitories for veterans by the end of 1946, is due to fall about 25 percent short of its goal.

IDENTIFY MURDER VICTIM

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—Franklin county sheriff's deputies hoped today that a laundry mark would enable them to make positive identification of a murder victim, whose frozen body was recovered from a creek north of Columbus Thursday. The man was tentatively identified last night by deputies as Thomas Lemasters, 26, Catlettsburg, Ky., on information furnished by a relative.

Teachers Approve Ohio Minimum Salary of $2,000

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—Delegates to the annual Ohio Education Association convention wound up its convention today after unanimously adopting a three-point legislative program and electing new officers at Columbus.

The OEA program to the general assembly calls for a state law establishing a minimum salary of $2,000 for Ohio teachers with four years training.

Included in the program for the assembly was a plan to increase state aid to public schools from $59,000,000 to $92,000,000 yearly. This could be done, according to the program, by raising the flat grant from $45 to $60 for elementary pupils and from $54 to $72 for high school students. The state program of equalizing school facilities would be accomplished by upping minimum support to $109 and $131 for grammar and high school students respectively.

The educators also sought emergency action by the new legislature to increase the present foundation program 30 per cent. This increase, estimated at $8,500,000, would be used only for teacher and school personnel salaries.

New officers elected at closing sessions of the three-day meeting include:

H. F. Vallance, director of the teacher placement bureau at Miami University, Oxford, president, and John J. Young of Rocky River, re-elected vice president. Robert B. Oldfather, Painesville, and Merrill F. Cooley, Warren, were elected to the executive committee.

During final sessions of the OEA representative assembly today a series of resolutions will be considered.

Members elected to the group's educational council are:

D. L. Arnold, Youngstown; Edwin W. Bash, Lorain; William P. Bradford, East Akron; Mrs. Kate L. Boyce, Dayton; D. W. Coddling, Nelsonville; W. K. Dunton, Piqua; Mary B. Hannaberry, Springfield; Lenore Holliday, Cincinnati; E. Bennett Owen, Oakwood; Verena L. White, Akron; and E. F. Reichelderfer, Columbus.

12-POINT PLAN TO HELP OHIO CITIES READY

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—Columbus and Franklin county Republican office holders released a 12-point program today designed to help ease the financial crises of Ohio cities and counties.

A committee report, subject to approval by all office holders, will be recommended to the next legislature. Ten of the recommendations would benefit municipalities and two counties.

Those to aid cities include: continuation of state revenue allocations; vacation of utility and admissions tax fields by the state in favor of municipalities; authorization of a municipal liquor tax; revision of cigarette, estate and inheritance and gas and auto tax allocations; appropriation of $10,000,000 directly to municipalities; earmarking of state funds for police and firemen's pensions, and matching of relief hospitalization costs by the state.

For county help, the plan suggests: allocation to counties of revenue from state intangible taxes, and assumption of common pleas court officials' salaries by the state.

Sugar Regulations Come In For Discussion While Butter Probe Goes On

By International News Service

Government officials agreed in the nation's capital today that food prices will remain high in 1947 and gradually fall to prewar levels as supply catches up with demand.

The prices of dairy products, meat, eggs, poultry, vegetables and fruits are expected to stay above prewar levels for most of next year. Agriculture department price experts said that there are no prospects of a sharp price drop for any food item despite the sudden fall of butter prices Wednesday.

Government investigators, meanwhile, were checking butter transactions during the past month on the New York butter market in an effort to uncover any attempt by producers to withhold from the market. The investigation was ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Sen. Butler (R) Neb., went on record at the same time against any immediate change in the government's sugar program which Anderson contends is being undermined by profit-seeking sugar brokers.

Butler, whose state is a major sugar-beet producer, conceded that he was "not altogether in love with the sugar program," but added:

"I advocate no change for the moment. I'm interested in the consumers—to see that they get more sugar and at a fair price."

Sen. Thomas (D) Okla., chairman of the senate agriculture committee, declined to comment on Anderson's blast against New York sugar brokers except to say:

"Secretary Anderson has pretty good ideas about those matters."

It was considered virtually certain, meanwhile, that the senate war investigating committee will issue a majority report condemning Sen. Bilbo (D) Miss., for his relations with war contractors.

Five of the nine remaining committee members—four Republicans and one Democrat—were described as ready to sign a report holding that Bilbo made improper use of his office as a senator. One senator said that the tenth member, Sen. Mitchell (D) Wash., was

UN APPROVAL OF ATOM PLAN DUE

Commission Expected To Give Approval To U. S. Plan At Monday Meeting

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 28—The atomic energy commission's approval on Monday of a draft report banning any veto on punishment for violators of the control code was forecast today by United States sources.

Failure to reach full agreement in the working committee after an eight-hour session moved American spokesmen to hint that the entire issue before the commission boils down to the following alternative:

Either the draft includes the wording insisted on by the United States as now contained that there shall be no veto on punishment, or the atom bomb will not be yielded in the future to international control.

The committee deferred full decision on the completed draft report until Monday, when the formal meeting of the atomic energy commission takes place. By implication, the committee gave its approval to all other proposals, including the slightly revised Baruch plan for control and inspection.

Debate on the veto question was marked by a spirited defense of the American attitude by Bernard M. Baruch, chief of the United States delegation. He stated:

"Gentlemen, it is either — or, either you agree that a criminal should have this right by voting against our position (or you fail

ADMIRAL BYRD EXPLORERS NEAR POLAR ICE PACK

WITH ADMIRAL BYRD'S ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION, Dec. 28—The great polar ice pack, immediate objective of the central task group of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's fourth Antarctic expedition, was literally just over the horizon today.

But Rear Adm. Richard Cruzen, commander of this group, maintained the cautious attitude which proves the worth of veteran polar navigators.

Instead of plunging onward, Cruzen—who has had experience in treacherous seas of both the Arctic and Antarctic—postponed his plans for penetrating the huge ice mass as menacing fogs steadily narrowed visibility and rendered navigation extremely hazardous.

The central command group approached to within about 40 miles of the great polar cap at noon Friday, and Cruzen thereupon changed his course.

Now, instead of driving south toward the pack, the four vessels are sailing parallel to it. The change in sailing plans was necessitated because radar, while excellent for spotting icebergs, has virtually no value in signalling out the formidable barrier of pack-ice.

Thus, the change in course was taken to avert any possibility of a head-on with the pack.

Navy Officers Tell More About Soviet Ultimatum

By WILLIAM H. NEWTON
Representing the Combined World Press

Distributed by International News Service

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28—From two of the United States Navy officers who were on the bridge of the ship when the incident took place came further details today of the Soviet ultimatum ordering a Navy courier vessel to leave the port of Dairen within 20 minutes "or we will not be responsible for the consequence."

The officers are Lt. Comdr. W. Gordon Cornell of Staten Island, N. Y., and Lt. (jg) Charles D. Arthur, of Pittsburgh. Cornell served four years at sea during the war and holds the Navy cross. Both Commander Cornell and Lt. Arthur are Navy information officers, and both accompanied the courier vessel on its trip to Dairen.

Their story of the incident aboard the Navy vessel is in sharp contrast to the recent announcement by a "spokesman" for the state department that the Soviets did not "in any sense" issue an ultimatum to the Navy ship. Both officers had been ashore and came aboard just before the Soviet ultimatum was issued.

"As we came through the gate of the port a Russian major jumped forward," Lt. Arthur said. "He assailed us verbally shrieking at us and pointing to the ship. We tried to let him understand that we did not speak Russian."

"We were quite aware of the fact, however, that he was very upset and angry about something. A Russian navy officer who was also present at the gate apparently tried to moderate the Russian army major."

"Accompanied by the Russian major and the naval officer we went aboard. Commander Edgar Yates, the ship commander, met us and they all went to the bridge. I followed them and that is when I noticed that they were talking in the same harsh manner to Commander Yates."

"When the ultimatum was given, Ensign Tilghman Koons, the Navy interpreter, asked the Russian major to repeat it so he could get a perfectly accurate translation. This the Russian major did. I think Ensign Koons had him repeat it three times in all."

"This was before the American consul, Mr. Benninghoff, or the

U. S. READY TO CLAIM ICY LAND

Sovereignty Over Sections Of Antarctica May Be Established Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The United States stood ready today to press a claim for sovereignty over huge sections of Antarctica if some other power should assert it has an exclusive right to any part of that, unknown territory.

A statement of U. S. policy was issued by the state department as expeditions from American shores and foreign lands raced to establish claim to the frigid ice-cap.

Thus far no official statement has been made as to what the competing countries hope to find in the huge ice-covered continent. The most glib explanation is evidence of huge uranium deposits underneath. Others contend that operations in the area may establish tests of polar equipment and military operations.

Whatever the reason, Russia, Australia, Britain Argentina and Chile are reported in or about to enter the race. The U.S. expedition is believed to have the lead on most of the others.

The statement of U.S. policy on claims to territory in the ice-capped land was inspired by reports of a controversy over a British expedition which settled in Marguerite bay during the war. It was set up near a station established in the 1940-41 expedition.

RESCUE SHIPS RACE TO AID OF U. S. STEAMER

LONDON, Dec. 28—The London Daily Herald said today that rescue ships are racing to the side of the American steamer Am Mer Mar which had radioed that it was sinking off southern Norway after striking a submerged object.

The Daily Herald said the Far-sund radio picked up an SOS from the vessel stating it was in need of "immediate assistance."

FIRE DAMAGES BARN AND AUTO AT STOUTSVILLE

Fire badly damaged a barn and an automobile at the home of Richard Justice, at Stoutsville, early Saturday.

Circleville firemen were summoned at 2:40 a. m. While they were making the 8-mile run to Stoutsville neighbors formed a bucket brigade in a futile attempt to extinguish the flames. The blazing automobile was removed from the barn.

Firemen said that a short circuit in the car may have caused the fire. The loss was unestimated. According to firemen, Etta Huffman is the owner of the property.

TEN AMERICANS KILLED

Nine Passengers Are Fatally Hurt In Crash And Resulting Explosion

SHANNON, Eire, Dec. 28—A Constellation airliner enroute from Paris to New York crashed just sixty seconds away from it landing at Shannon airport today, taking a death-toll of 12 persons.

All other 11 persons aboard the huge TWA trans-ocean craft were injured.

The death list came to 12 when the London office of TWA added the names of Flight Engineer Walker McBride of Alexandria, Va., and Radio Officer Hubert Burmeister of Washington, D. C., to the victims.

Flames from the wreckage of the Trans-World Airline Constellation rose hundreds of feet into the air. The explosion shook the foundations of the airport buildings two and a half miles away.

TWA earlier announced that 12 persons were killed in the crash but later amended its report with the lower figure.

Nine of the dead were passengers. The 10th was the plane's navigator, R. A. Osterberg, of Presidential Park Gardens, Alexandria, Va. He was pronounced dead on arrival at nearby Barrington hospital.

Many of the survivors were seriously injured and were removed to hospitals.

TWA identified other dead as:

Allan Charles Lanyon, Washington, D. C.

Clementine Jeanne Pugh, Philadelphia.

Professor Alexander Haim Pekels, New York.

Francois Joseph Salabert, Paris.

Lucienne Simone Clerc, Paris.

Marie Zelaznegora, New York City.

Pierre Dreyfus, New York City.

Maurice Simon Picard, Flushing, New York.

Herman Koegel, New York City.

The following were admitted to St. John's hospital:

Davis N. Tannenbaum, 49, New York, company director, suffering from shock and bruises.

William Tesle, 30, Paris, unconscious.

Mrs. Edith Augustine Delaby, wife of American GI, Newark, N. J., badly burned, with injuries to lower limbs.

Charles Bruce Delaby, her five-months-old son, burns and a fractured leg.

Catherine Ferguson, 25, the plane's hostess, New York City, shock and knee injuries.

Admitted to the county hospital at Ennis suffering from serious injuries were Dudley Hill, 34, of Virginia, an unidentified 12-year-old.

FOUR MEN HELD FOR BEATING UP TOWN MARSHAL

Four men living near Laurelville, charged with beating Carl Swackhammer, Laurelville town marshal, were arrested in a dwelling near Laurelville, Friday night by Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Pontius and Lou McClellan, Laurelville mayor.

The four, who were subsequently removed to the Hocking county jail at Logan, are: Forrest Kneese, Leonard Kneese, his brother, Merrill Congrove, and Berman Schwalbach.

Mayor McClellan said that Marshal Swackhammer had placed the quartet under arrest on a speeding charge and that in the ensuing argument the four men beat the marshal severely. The latter was removed to his home.

The alleged assailants of the marshal were taken into custody by Deputy Pontius and Mayor McClellan shortly after an alarm had been broadcast over the State Highway Patrol radio system.

old French boy and Flight Officer Herbert Tansey, Falls Church, Va. Gunther N. Lubsynski (identified by TWA in Paris as a Frenchman), was removed to Barrington hospital suffering from critical fractures of both legs and left arm and internal injuries.

The plane, which had left Paris at midnight, crashed on to Bog island in the Shannon river estuary at 2:15 a. m. (9:15 p. m. EST yesterday).

The first rescue party to arrive at the scene of the crash was led by Capt. T. S. Harrington, a trans-Atlantic pilot.

He said: "There were only one or two people at the scene when we got there. There was a terrific struggle to reach the plane. The mud was knee deep and the island was one vast bog condition."

"It was simply unbelievable," Harrington, who is scheduled to fly to New York this afternoon, said the plane obviously broke its back when it crashed and then caught fire.

He commented: "It would have been difficult for the crew or any of those in the front of the plane to escape, particularly due to the explosion and fire."

Miss Catherine Ferguson, hostess, said: "I had just told the passengers to fasten their safety belts and prepare for a landing when the crash occurred."

"That's the last I remember until I got out of the airplane."

LEGAL EXPERTS PUZZLE OVER SILVER HOARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Army legal experts thumbed through their law books today for an answer to what should be done with the German Hohenzollern silver treasure brought to this country from Berlin by the 175th regiment.

It was disclosed that the 500 settings of silverware carrying imperial crest have been removed from a vault of the fifth regiment armory in Baltimore to the customs bureau there for appraisal.

Unofficial estimates of the value of the trove start at $200,000.

Customs officials disclosed that they plan to turn the seized fortune in silver over to Army headquarters in Washington when an evaluation is made.

Army lawyers admitted that this poses a thorny legal problem for them to untangle. Belief was expressed by some that no law exists which would permit the United States to keep the silver.

They added, however, that it might be used to cover partially reparations chalked up against Germany.

Moreover, should it be found that the fortune can be retained in the United States rather than returned to Germany, sources expected to be close to the case are at a loss as to what disposition should be made of the silver in this country.

'SPIRIT OF '76' CREATOR'S LOST DRAWING FOUND

By International News Service
CHARDON, O., Dec. 28—A lost painting by the creator of the famous "Spirit of '76" was found recently in the attic of a nearby Rock Creek woman.

The picture depicts a rock on which two figures stand in mountain background. Simplicity of design and coloring, characteristic of Willard, are predominant in the work.

Mrs. William McClusky, while visiting the Geauga Historical Museum at Burton, viewed several paintings by the Rev. Samuel Willard, father of Archibald Willard, the well-known Ohio artist.

Mrs. McClusky, recalling that she lived in the house which was once the home of a nephew of Willard, rummaged through the attic until she found another painting by the famous Willard.

Mrs. McClusky presented the painting to the Geauga museum.

Both groups met on the OSU campus, while a third group, the National Council of Geography Teachers, was convened in a two-day session at a Columbus hotel.

SENATORS NOT SATISFIED WITH PRESENT SETUP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Sen. Reed (R) Kas., challenged the senate Republican leadership's committee assignment slate today which leaves him without a chairmanship.

Reed said he will contest assignment of the public lands chairmanship to Sen. Butler, Neb.

If he succeeds, it might upset the whole slate which the committee on committees has agreed to submit to the Republican conference Monday. This is because Butler also is eligible to the finance committee chairmanship.

Reed is eligible by seniority to the civil service committee chairmanship. But he did not ask for it, and it fell to Sen. Langer (R) N. D., in the leadership's slate.

Depriving the veteran Kansan of any chairmanship intensified the explosive situation that already existed. A half-dozen or more senators were dissatisfied with their assignments and actively preparing for a conference fight.

It was disclosed also that the committee on committees itself was split.

TEACHER STRIKE AT ST. PAUL TO END JANUARY 6

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 28—The St. Paul City council today awaited receipt of a certified charter amendment as 1,165 public school teachers ended their five-weeks-long strike for higher wages and school improvements.

The teachers promised to report for classes in the city's 77 public schools Monday, Jan. 6.

The close of their strike was announced last night, after the city's charter commission took favorable action on an amendment which provides three million dollars more annually for school operations.

The amendment now goes to the voters in a special election which the city council said it would call within six weeks.

The teachers made it plain they would retain the right to strike again should the amendment be defeated at the special election.

The salary schedule provides a range of $2,400 to $4,200 for teachers with a bachelor's degree. The present salary range is $1,300 to $2,600.

OHIOANS WARNED COLD WEATHER TO HIT TONIGHT

By International News Service
Ohioans were warned today to prepare for Minnesota and Michigan weather this weekend in contrast to last night's Florida mildness.

In contrast to a 40-degree rise in temperature over a 24-hour period yesterday, the mercury already had plunged 20 degrees by 10:30 a. m. today in many Ohio places and probably will drop another 20 points by tomorrow morning.

The Cleveland weather bureau reported a reading of 58 at 6:30 a. m. this morning and 39 only four hours later. The only part of the state not affected before noon by the falling mercury was the extreme southeast portion. Temperatures were not expected to hold up much longer there.

This morning's high of 59 degrees in Cleveland broke a 39-year record of 56 degrees. In turning itself around, the weather played peculiar tricks with mercury readings.

Sandusky was another place where the 1907 high was broken. Today's reading of 60 gave the lake port its warmest Dec. 28 on record. The previous high was 57 degrees.

Columbus reported a minimum after midnight higher than the maximum before 12 o'clock. The 63 degrees registered in Cincinnati and Parkersburg, W. Va., topped the places reporting over the state. Zanesville trailed Columbus by only point with 60.

The lowest reading recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today was 39 at Findlay.

More snow will fall tonight with temperatures of from 10 to 20 degrees predicted for the state. Sunday will bring more cloudiness and quite cold weather with additional snow flurries along the lake.

U. S. OFFICIALS CHECKING UP ON MEXICAN CATTLE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The Agriculture Department is launching a widespread investigation to determine whether cattle imported from Mexico during the meat shortage brought any of the dread "foot and mouth" disease into U. S. livestock herds.

Dr. Severin O. Fladness, chief of the department's bureau of animal husbandry field inspection division, disclosed that spot checks are being made to locate areas into which Mexican cattle were shipped.

Fladness said that no sign of the disease has yet been reported within the United States. But he labeled the disease as "extremely contagious" and said it spreads rapidly.

tion of Commander Richard E. Byrd, the most pretentious up to that time. Huts, mechanical equipment and supplies were hurriedly left when approaching Winter forced a departure.

Recently the state department asked London to find out the condition of this equipment. This has been done, with the warning, however, that the seal situation was bad—not enough to supply the men and dogs of both stations.

In its formal statement on U. S. claims, the state department said: "In this connection, the U. S. government has not recognized any claims of any other nations in the Antarctic and has reserved all rights which it may have in those areas. On the other hand, the United States has never formally asserted any claims, but claims have been asserted in its behalf by American citizens."

12 PERSONS ARE FOUND DEAD IN PLANE WRECKAGE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 28—A detachment of 25 Marines and 10 forest rangers were scheduled to leave today to remove the bodies from the wreckage of a Western Airlines plane on the northeast slope of Cuyapaipe peak in the rugged Laguna mountains east of San Diego.

Twelve persons, nine passengers and a crew of three, died in the Christmas eve crash of the plane. A ground crew reached the wreckage yesterday after deputy sheriffs spotted it with field glasses from a vantage point in the valley.

The ship was en route from El Centro, Cal., to San Diego when it crashed against the 6375-foot peak. The men reaching the wreckage said that the wing and tail sections came through the crash reasonably intact but that the fuselage was both badly smashed and burned.

All of the victims were residents of southern California.

MOTHER, CHILD DIE OF BURNS AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—The attempt of a young housewife to rekindle a stove with kerosene resulted today in the death of Mrs. Leona Marshall, 22, and her five-month-old son, Leonard Arthur.

Flames destroyed the three-room cottage of Mrs. Marshall and her husband, Clifford, 32, at Columbus yesterday afternoon when the stove apparently exploded.

Mrs. Marshall was found lying in the yard with her clothes almost completely burned off. She died early today in a hospital. The infant burned to death in the house as flames prevented his rescue.

Two other Marshall children, Annie May, 5, and Mary Lee, 3, escaped without injury. Their father was at work when the fire occurred.

to take a stand on the question by refraining from voting), or you vote for this sound and basic principle of enduring justice and plain common sense."

Herbert Bayard Swope, advisor to Baruch, said afterward that the United States would insist on a specific ban of the veto. Those nations who demonstrated outright support for the United States attitude were Brazil, China, Egypt, Australia and Mexico.

France led the fight against the inclusion of the word "veto," maintaining that the American wording would violate the UN charter and cause dissension among the powers. French Delegate Alexander Parodi said he was fully in favor of removing the veto on punishment but that this was already provided for in the draft without its specific mentioning.

The nations which lined up with his viewpoint were Poland, the United Kingdom, Canada and the Netherlands. The British and Canadians said they did this in the hope of getting a unanimous agreement, but stipulated they would vote with the majority on a show-down.

Soviet Russia clung to her recent policy of "non-participation" by breaking a day-long silence at 6:45 p. m. to request that it be recorded with the atomic energy commission that she had not participated in the discussion.

out of the balloting because he resigned his senate seat this week.

Sen. Reed (R) Kans., challenged the senate GOP leadership's committee assignment slate which leaves him without a chairmanship.

Reed said he will contest assignment of the public lands chairmanship to Sen. Butler.

If Reed succeeds, it might upset the whole slate which the committee on committees has agreed to submit to the Republican conference Monday. This is because Butler also is eligible to the finance committee chairmanship.

ARMY AIR FORCE PLANE DELIVERY IS DOWN TO 83

WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O., Dec. 28—The Army Air Forces, which used to count planes by the thousands, reported today that only 83 planes of all types were delivered during November.

The total included 70 jet-propelled fighters, 11 transports, and two helicopters.

Aircraft deliveries for the first 11 months of the year totaled 600, including 64 bombers, 410 fighters, 12 photographic planes, 77 transports, and 37 communications planes.

Paul Claims the World for Christ

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 29 is Acts 9:15; 19:21; 23:11; 28:28-31; Romans 1:13-16; 10:16-18; 15:22-24, the Memory Verse being Matthew 28:19, "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations.")

THIS LAST lesson on Paul, his life and missionary journeys, reminds us that the reason that churches were scattered all over Asia in the first century, was because one man, Paul, had a passion for spreading the gospel to the whole world, and devoted his life to this cause in spite of the hardships of travel and persecutions which included assaults on his person.

Our first reference in Acts takes us back to the time Paul, then an ardent persecutor of Christians, burning with zeal to stamp them out in Damascus and take all he found in chains back to Jerusalem, was stopped by the vision of Jesus, and blinded. Led into Damascus he was lodged in a house in the street called Straight.

That night, a devout man of Damascus named Ananias was startled out of sleep by a vision, and the Lord told him to go to Paul, or Saul as he was then called. Saul had had a vision, said the Lord, he was blinded and was praying. Ananias said he had heard of evil of this man and that he had come to Damascus to persecute the Lord's saints there.

"But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way, for he is a chosen vessel unto Me, to bear My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel." You remember that Ananias said as he was told and Paul's sight was restored.

At this time, Paul probably had no idea that he would be called upon to fill so great a place as he did in the world.

Paul Goes to Jerusalem

"After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, and thence to Rome. He was also told that he would be persecuted at Jerusalem, and that he would be bound with a Roman soldier, and that he would be taken to Rome, and that he would be released there."

There have been many missionaries since Paul's time, but none who did so much for the church, none who more implicitly obeyed the injunction: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations."

alem, so must thou bear witness also as Rome."

Why did Paul want so much to go to Rome? That city was then the center of the world. It was a powerful, splendid and populous city. It attracted the leaders in every business and profession, social leaders and those with political aspirations.

The letter to the Romans was probably written two years before his arrest at Jerusalem. He had not seen Rome then and we do not know who founded the church in that city, but there was a church there. He writes:

"I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes I purposed to come unto you (but was hindered), that I might have some fruit among you also, even among other Gentiles."

"I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the unwise."

"So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also." The epithet barbarian was applied to persons who were not Greeks, as the Greek civilization excelled all others. The "wise and unwise" is thought to denote the cultured and uncultured.

Later, in Romans 15, Paul refers again to the hindrances that have kept him from visiting Rome, and writes that "But now, having no more place in these parts, and having a great desire these many years to come unto you, Whosoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you; for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought to my journey thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled with your company."

Whether Paul ever went to Spain we do not know, but his desire to visit Rome, as we see, was very strong. He wanted to preach the gospel of Christ in that "first city" of the then known world—indeed, it seems that it was a passion with him so to do.

Alas, most of the time he was in Rome it was as a prisoner, even though he was allowed to live in his own house, with a Roman soldier guarding him, and to talk freely with all who came to see this great apostle, and many came. His letters written to various churches when he was a prisoner in that city are among the greatest sermons ever preached in all the world.

A tourist party traveling in the South came upon a little colored boy carrying another boy almost as large as himself. The car slowed down to get a better look at the human-interest picture. One of the men in the front seat leaned out of the open window on his elbow and addressed the elder boy:

"That boy you are carrying there," he said, "is too heavy for you." "Shucks mister," replied the boy, "he ain't heavy, he's my brother."

What a lesson in life this little experience teaches. Often we are averse to shouldering the burden of a brother in distress, because we feel that our own burdens are heavy enough without taking on someone else's problems.

Yet, as we look at this picture, we see that although the elder boy looks as if he had all he could carry, he is smiling and the load seems light. He is making his brother happy.

The bible and the church teach us that indeed we are "our brother's keeper," and that by shouldering the burdens of one less fortunate than ourselves, our faces will light up with the sheer joy of doing a good deed for someone else.

In an age when self interest is perhaps at the peak of its greatest expression, we could do with a little more cooperation. Neighborliness and kindness give one a feeling of inner well-being. Lifting the load from the shoulders of another and helping him when he is in distress is pleasing in the sight of God. Let's try to be more helpful.

Church Briefs

The mixed chorus of the First Evangelical United Brethren church accepted an invitation from the Baltimore, Ohio, Evangelical United Brethren churches to present the cantata, "The Light O'er Bethlehem," at a union Sunday night service. 'INVENTORY' IS SERMON TOPIC AT EUB CHURCH

"The 1946 Spiritual Inventory," is the sermon topic chosen by the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, East Main street, for the closing 10:30 a. m. divine worship of the year.

Adapting her organ selections to the sermon theme, Miss Lucille Kirkwood will play Steere's composition, "The New Year's Coming In," "Offertory" by Saint Saens and "March" by Craig.

The choir under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick will sing an appropriate anthem.

In announcing the sermon topic, the Rev. Mr. Wilson says, "Successful business demands and must have an accurate inventory at certain periods of the year. This careful check of merchandise on hand gives a detailed picture of the business from a past state to present conditions to a future prospective. As good business policy demands an accurate inventory of its employees for successful operation so God demands a careful spiritual inventory from every individual Christian for the successful and efficient operation of the church."

The Junior church meets in the children's chapel at 10:30 a. m. with a lesson study suited to juvenile appreciation. This group has its own order of worship, including a choir processional, special vocal and instrumental numbers of special music and ushers. The children further participate by sharing in the scripture reading, congregational singing and prayers. All children from four to twelve years of age are invited to attend. Parents may bring such aged children to church with them and be assured they will enjoy a well planned and executed worship service. Miss Gladys Noggle, Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood, Jr., and Mrs. Carl L. Wilson supervise the work.

At 6:00 p. m. the Youth Fellowship meets in the Sunday school room with Jean Spangler leading the lesson study and discussion period. All young people from 12 to 24 years of age are invited.

In the evening evangelistic service at 7:30 p. m., the pastor will speak on the topic, "Our New Year's Ebenezer," with a scriptural directive from I Samuel 7:12.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Previous to the regular hour of worship Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran church, a group of children will be baptised. Parents bringing children are requested to be present at 10 a. m.

Confirmation service will be held at 10:15 a. m. at which time 11 adults will be received into full membership.

Subject of the Rev. George L. Troutman's sermon will be "My Solemn Pledge on the Last Sunday of the Year".

The senior choir, under the direction of Carl C. Leist, will present the anthem, "He shall be Called Great". Miss Jeanie Merrill, of the voice department of Evanston College Institute, Chicago, Ill., will be a guest soloist for this service.

ing the holidays with his parents and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buck and sons Donald and Johnny.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The liberals are not "liberals" any more—since election they have become "progressives". The word liberals illfitted them. Liberal means freedom, but they stood for a rather ruthless centralized authoritarian democracy in the new deal and they favored single-minded domination of people in such totalitarian states as Russia, and political alliances with their American representatives such as the Communist dominated American labor party in New York.

The liberals must have been reading this column. You really have to read it to keep up with the swift changing times. They must have read particularly the one published August 9 which pointed out they could discontinue their search for the answer of what was wrong with liberalism, then being conducted by their new republic magazine now openly under the leadership of a politician who wants to go half-way to Russian theories, Henry Wallace. The trouble with liberalism, I then reported, was that it was not liberal. It did not stand for freedom of individuals but for the opposite—totalitarianism.

Now they have changed the name, but not the policy. They have neglected to correct their basic mistake, but wish to perpetuate it by calling it "progressive".

This is somewhat reactionary. The term "progressive" is hardly new. It simply means progress. In all my living days as a political reporter, I never heard of a politico who did not advocate progress. No one is against it. Therefore it embraces a scope which depreciates its descriptive quality. Utopians would be a better descriptive name for them, but they lost under this title because they only talked about Utopia and doubt about their ability to deliver Utopia on earth became too widespread.

At any rate Messrs. Morgenthau, Ickes, Phil Murray, et al, decided after election to meet here in January and call themselves by a new name, "The Conference of Progressives", which, as I say, is rather hopelessly reactionary. In my lifetime, the title was used exclusively by the late Senator Robert LaFollette back when the 20th century was in its teens. The Utopian ex-liberals are thus reacting in name only to the LaFollette era, which will be hard for them to do otherwise because LaFollette hated and distrusted the very Communists with whom they sympathize and appease. Progressive, therefore, actually seems to mean progress backward more than 25 years.

This reactionaryism will be interesting in Russia which is trying to classify everyone in the world who does not want to give Russia what she selfishly wants as a reactionary—although Russia, herself is in truth the most reactionary government in the world today. It is, I believe, the oldest. It wants to react the world to its 1917 revolution and beyond that back to Marx and his obsolete theories of more than 100 years ago. Russia is truly reactionary because it is the only major world government which has not modernized itself, but clings to its backward and unsuccessful ways, an economic system which has never produced comparably with the rest of the world, and a political system which has not been changed in 30 years. Britain has a socialist labor government (Russia does not allow a union except meaninglessly under state control). The United States had its new deal and reformation. Only Russia has failed to progress.

DIET AND HEALTH
Many Causes for Chest Pains

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
SEVENTY-FIVE different causes for pain in the chest are listed in the medical books. Thus, patients suffering from this common and often serious symptom cannot expect a couple of thumps and a few minutes examination with the stethoscope to reveal the exact source of their trouble. As a matter of fact, correct determination of the cause of chest pain requires not only laboratory tests and X-ray examination, but seasoned judgment on the part of the doctor.
Perhaps the most frequent cause of such pain is not disorder within the chest itself, but strain or injury to the muscles which overlay it. In these cases, fortunately, diagnosis is easy.
Extent of Injury
Treatment depends upon the extent of the injury but, in many instances, merely strapping the chest with adhesive tape to keep the movements of the muscles limited to some extent will relieve pain and allow the condition to clear up. The application of heat and gentle massage also may be of value.
There is a disorder known as pleurodynia which causes pain on one side of the chest, the pain being more common on the left side. The pain is made worse by deep breathing, coughing, or yawning. In this disorder there is also some tenderness in the muscle. Treatment is much like that for muscle strain, and the disorder clears up without any complications.
Certain Chest Pains
Certain chest pains may actually be due to disorders affecting the organs within the abdomen, such as gallbladder disease or ulcer of the stomach. A spasm of the diaphragm, which carries blood to the heart muscle, is a common cause for attacks of pain in the chest.
Because of the many disorders which are responsible for chest pains, the patient should be carefully studied when such attacks occur. All the various X-ray and laboratory examinations which are available should be used to determine the exact source of the difficulty because in each case treatment depends upon the nature of the trouble.

Big Union Wage Drives Foreseen During 1947
Admission of Ex-Foes Brings Russian Protest

WASHINGTON—Nearly every big union in the country has launched or is talking about 1947 wage drives—all except the railroad brotherhoods.
Rail union chiefs are well aware of the general wage movement, but they are resisting demands of their membership that they climb on the bandwagon.
Not that they don't want higher wages. Quite the contrary. But the leaders believe their best strategy is to mark time for several months and watch the price picture.
LOOK FOR FRESH OUTBURSTS from the Communist press throughout the world at the admission into the United States of Nazis and others who sided with the Axis during the war.
Moscow has already clamored against issuance of a visa for Hjalmar J. Procope, former Finnish minister in Washington. Procope would prefer to join his British wife and two children in Britain. But he cannot go there because Britain has not yet signed the Finnish peace treaty.
Kurt Sell, former German newspaperman in Washington, was repatriated after Pearl Harbor, and since then, has worked in Lisbon where he has maintained a scrupulous silence in associating with his peace-time acquaintances. CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR
WHEN THEY had collected Mary's things and were ready to go, Mary bade her grandmother a casual goodbye. Philip, seeing the tears that Mrs. Garrett could not keep back, was puzzled as he had been before by Mary's indifference. He had not forgotten Dr. Somers' advice about not letting her get too attached to him, and he had been hoping that she would transfer some of her affection to Anne; but if this was all she cared about her grandmother, who was the only mother she'd known, what could he expect?
He was still thinking about Mary when Anne's voice recalled him to the immediate present and its concrete problems.
"I just thought of something. Maybe the lights and gas won't be on. Mrs. Lane wasn't expecting us until tomorrow. Wouldn't it be awful if we couldn't spend the night in our new home after all?"
"Awful," said Mary. "Let's not believe it. Maybe they're on."
"If they're not, we'll be there in time to get them turned on," Philip assured her with a laugh.
They need not have worried. The house was ready for them—cleaned and dusted. The beds were made up; the electric refrigerator was filled with food; and the morning paper was on the table in the living room beside the most comfortable chair.
Philip picked up the telephone and heard a satisfying buzz. "Mrs. Lane surely did herself proud," he commented. "When do we eat?"
"Now I really believe I'm married," said Anne. "Come on, Mary! Let's get our things off and fix this man some food."
"And then will we get Micky?"
"Then we'll go get Micky." They went upstairs, and Philip turned on the radio. Though he tried all the stations, he could find nothing but brief-listed serials and he finally shut it off. There was an immediate outcry from Mary, who had come back into the room. "I love the Happy Eatons," she said. "They didn't sound very happy to me." Philip turned it back on.
"Grandma listens to them all the time."
"She does?"
He stretched out on the couch and opened the News. Presently the Happy Eatons went off with dire prophecies concerning next day's episode, and an orchestra took its place. Philip let the paper fall. He'd better call Somers after lunch and see if he was needed. ... It would be nice to loaf around home the first day. ... This couch was certainly comfortable. Mary was shaking his arm. "Ham and eggs, Philip. Come and get it."
He sat up rubbing his eyes. "Was I asleep?"
Anne was laughing at him from the doorway. "The poor, tired doctor. He's been working so hard."
Home!
Philip lay on the couch listening with contentment to his favorite Sunday evening program. A faint pink glow from the alabaster lamp Mr. Bowman had made in the shape of a lighthouse, and a red glow from the fireplace, was the only illumination in the room. This was the time when you appreciated home—when it was snowing outside, and you had waded about in slush all day. He had even visited Somers, who had a touch of flu, and some of Somers' patients besides. But it was almost worth getting so tired, to enjoy such complete rest as this.
Anne was up in Mary's room having a bedtime visit. Pretty soon she would come down and fix some sandwiches and coffee, and they would eat here in front of the fire. The orchestra was playing something that sounded like Massenet's "Elegy," but wasn't. He had heard it before somewhere.
He was almost asleep when the doorbell cut through the music and the privacy with its threat of invasion. He heard Anne's step on the stair and lay still, hoping that whoever it was had the wrong house.
A moment later Anne switched the lights on, and he heard her voice in greeting. He sat up resignedly and recognized, after a confused moment, some friends of the Lane whom he had practically forgotten and had certainly never expected to see on his own doorstep.
With automatic cordiality he added his welcome to Anne's, and in a few minutes Mr. and Mrs. Thompson had shed their coats and were settled comfortably for the evening.
The Thompsons liked the house—which they said they'd had some difficulty in finding, it being such a bad night, and all. "But isn't this room rather hard to heat?" Mr. Thompson asked.
"Not particularly," said Philip. "There's a gas furnace."
"Converted from a coal furnace, or a new one?"
"Why, I guess it's a new one; the house is new."
Mr. Thompson nodded approval. "They're not so bad. Expensive, of course. But I wouldn't have one of those converted things on the place. Complete nuisance. Don't you think so, Minnie?"
"What did you say, dear?"
The first strains of the berceuse from "Jocelyn" had drowned out the question. Philip leaned over and cut Anne's favorite song short with a click of the knob. "Sorry, I forgot that was on."
"I said I wouldn't have a converted gas furnace."
"Oh, no," Mrs. Thompson agreed. "I wouldn't either. They use up so much gas."
"Have you seen the Lanes lately?" Mrs. Thompson asked after a moment's silence. When the Raiders had denied having seen the Lanes, Mr. Thompson asked after Mary.
"Oh, she's just fine. Asleep by now, I hope." Anne started to say something more, but the Thompsons were not really interested in Mary. Mrs. Thompson said, "Are you still with Jean in the shop, Mrs. Raider?"
Anne looked surprised. "Oh, no," she said. "I've kept my interest because Jean didn't want another partner, but I haven't time for it now."
Philip suppressed a smile. If Mrs. Thompson had wanted to embarrass Anne by this reference to her having been a beauty operator, she must be disappointed. She probably hadn't meant anything, though. There was a short silence; then Mr. Thompson spoke.
"What do you think of the daylight saving argument, Doctor?"

IF YOU are too lazy to notice the little things, you will never be a great player. That applies to either the offense or defense. Unspectacular details, such as the spot cards played on high card tricks, can unfold the key to successful play the rest of the way. Discards by one member of the defense, to send messages to his partner, are especially important. What the other defender does is influenced by them—or should be—and from the declarer's standpoint they constitute warnings regarding how he should try to protect himself. That is, if he can.

East blew up like a bomb as soon as the completion of play related his tension.
"Didn't you see me signal with spades on the second and third club tricks?" he asked West. He had put the spade 8 on the first of those tricks and the 2 on the second.
"If you had obeyed that signal, and led a spade when you got in with your jack of clubs," East said, "I would have won with the ace and returned the ten to your king then and would have scored four diamond tricks. Those plus the spade and club would have set him two tricks."
True enough. But East could not do anything after West explained: "I didn't notice your signal."

Miss Mettler Invited To Meet English Queen

Teacher Writes Of Experiences In England

Experiences in England are told in an interesting letter from Miss Helen Mettler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mettler, Laurelsville, and sister of Mrs. William Goodchild, Beverly road.

Miss Mettler, former teacher in the Fostoria schools, is an exchange instructor in Queenswood school, Hatfield, Herts, England. She was one of the teachers chosen for one year's teaching in England by the U. S. department of education.

A letter, written December 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Mettler, tells of receiving an invitation, given by Lady Astor, for her to be present at a tea in honor of her "Majesty the Queen". The affair was to take place on December 19. "I am the envy of the staff of teachers here," Miss Mettler was told by a member of the staff she would have to curtsy. Her answer was, "we do not do that in our country and leave that privilege to the English people."

She wrote, "People are always asking, 'Don't you think we English people are old fashioned?' When I confirm the answer—it sets them back." Miss Mettler asked a friend over there for some bulletins pertaining to education but there is nothing of that type available there. A few of the English, when visiting Ohio State University and various training centers around Columbus, were astonished at the quantity of available educational material in the United States.

In writing of Christmas greetings from home, "I read every thing, from cover to cover. Magazines here are very poor—of course that is due to paper shortage."

She wrote of holiday plans, "First to see that my visa is in good order, then—we leave London, the 21st for Dover, cross the Straits, and land in Ostend Brussels. Will arrive on the 22nd at Chur, Switzerland, and plan to stay over night in the Drei Koenige Hotel. Then on to Sedrun Grisons, Switzerland, on the 23rd, and will stay in hotel Oberalp. Sedrun is a small mountain village on the Furka Oberalp railway, which climbs up 6300 feet. What a vacation. I plan to stop in Paris on the way back."

Miss Mettler wrote that she had been congratulated on grading papers by the headmistress; that they had checked the questions, with the answers. "The English people just do not feel we might be as thorough as they are."

In concluding the letter she wrote of the fog. The sun was shining that day, the first in a long time.

ASHVILLE

The Knight Rank will be conferred at Palmetto Lodge tonight following a holiday banquet for members and candidates to be served at 6:45.

Ashville School notes: The Ashville schools will reopen Thursday, January 2. Miss Geraldine Conard is visiting with relatives in Weston, W. Va. Mr. Paul Brobst visited with relatives at Rose Dale, Indiana. The Ashville basketball team will play Darby Township at Ashville Friday. Supt. W. L. Harris attended the Central Ohio teachers meeting in Columbus. A preliminary report from the state department of education shows that most of the elementary classes were above the state medians in the December every pupil tests. A comparison of Ashville and stated medians by subjects follow: Grade 8, mathematics 73-47; English 70-58; history 43-37; Grade 7, mathematics 52-32; English 58-49; history 44-37; Grade 6, arithmetic 76-66; English 75-76; Grade 5, arithmetic 49-43; English 66-68; Grade 4, arithmetic 66-64; English 42-55; Grade 3, arithmetic 86-79; reading 57-57; Grade 2, reading 37-39. The following elementary pupils were in the upper 1 percent in the state tests: Grade 8, mathematics Suzanne Dailey; history, Nancy Hedges; Grade 7, mathematics, James Wheeler and Richard Fudge; Grade 6, arithmetic Bob Bowers; Grade 4, arithmetic, Danny Barth, Dale Puckett, Eugene Wheeler; English Roger Harris; Grade 3, arithmetic Nancy Barth; Grade 2

After wondering for some time why a local hybrid seed corn man had given me a quart of fire extinguisher fluid for Christmas, I learned the reason when I discovered that he is selling fire extinguishers. HOUSEHOLD HINT
Poultry experts say that the white meat of chicken is good for you because it contains niacin, the important anti-pellagra B vitamin. It compares favorably with pork and beef liver which are among the highest sources of this vitamin. The dark meat, on the other hand, contains more riboflavin and thiamine than white meat, so it, too, is good for you.

MISS BRINKLEY IS BRIDE OF C. C. CHAPPELEAR

On December 22 at 2:30 p. m. in the Indianola Methodist church Columbus Miss Norma Jane Brinkley daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brinkley, Sixteenth avenue, Columbus, became the bride of Crede Cameron Chappelear, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton W. Chappelear, North Fourth street, Columbus.

The Rev. George S. Lackland, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The altar was decorated in poinsettias and lighted tapers lined the aisle of the church. Mr. Brinkley gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride chose for her wedding, a gown of satin, with an oval neckline outlined by a fold of satin, long sleeves coming to points over her wrists and a full skirt ending in a train. The double fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls, she carried a colonial bouquet centered with an orchid.

Miss Margaret Brinkley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue marquisette dress with a yellow shoulder-length veil. Miss Mary Ellen Greshel, bridesmaid, wore yellow marquisette with a blue veil. Both attendants carried colonial bouquets.

Thornton Chappelear, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and two other brothers, John and David Chappelear, were ushers.

A reception at the home of the brides parents followed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Chappelear, is a graduate of North high school, and attended Ohio State University. Mr. Chappelear was graduated from North high school, and is a student at Ohio State University. He served two years in the Navy, 18 months of which were spent overseas. The couple resides at 102 Sixteenth avenue, Columbus.

The bridegroom is a grandson of the late Senator and Mrs. C. C. Chappelear, Circleville.

GOP BOOSTERS MEMBERS HAVE HOLIDAY PARTY

Members of the G. O. P. Boosters, met in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Styers, South Pickaway street, Thursday, for their Christmas dinner party. Mrs. Ruth E. Wignel, president, was in charge of the business meeting, which opened with the pledge of allegiance and the group singing America.

Mrs. Wignel presented a reading, "What Christmas Means to All of Us." Christmas carols were sung by the members, accompanied by Miss Ruth Styers at the piano. A gift exchange was held during the social hour, with names drawn for the coming year. The club members voted to make this an annual party. Games were played with prizes awarded to Miss Lenore Hundley and Mrs. Wignel.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Edna Smith. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Blanche Mavis, 423 Half avenue, on January 30.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

It is evident that the Russians and their counterparts in this country are trying to get us mixed up by false terms they apply to us and themselves. A stench, however, can not yet call itself perfume. The truth is the Russians, who call everyone else reactionary, are the reactionaries, the only current world force against progress for themselves and for others, while the progressives who sympathize with them are reacting away from even calling themselves liberals.
—What I would call them all is a bunch of political Barnums who cannot fool anyone any more—the aberrationist school of politics which can sell nary an aberrationist.

NEWARK SPOILS CAGE RECORD OF MIDDLETOWN 5

Wildcats Will Try To Snap
Hamilton Victory String
In Game Tonight

By International News Service
A high school basketball dynasty was smashed to bits today and a red hot Newark Wildcat quintet sought to turn in a grand slam weekend of giant killing.

The Wildcats nosed out Middletown, 46 to 43, last night. The defeat was the state champion Middletown's first in 31 starts and snapped a five game streak for the current season.

The Middies had raced to state class "A" titles in 1944 and last year and lost to Bellevue in the 1945 tournament finals.

Newark was well qualified to administer the epic defeat. The Wildcats are three-time state champions in their own right, winning the last crown in 1943. The current aggregation, coached by Max Douglas, was hitting the comeback trail after a loss to Coshocton a week ago.

Tonight, the Wildcats tackle Hamilton, unbeaten in five impressive outings.

Another upset was recorded in a four-team tournament at Springfield where Dayton Stivers finally hit the victory trail at the expense of once-defeated Springfield, 43 to 37, Toledo Waite trounced New Philadelphia, 35 to 28, in the other tourney game.

A tournament at Lima saw Toledo Woodward remain in the unbeaten class with a 57-48 win over Lorain and Findlay defeat Lima Central, 45 to 30.

SHRINE GAME SQUADS ARE NEARING TOP FORM

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28—East and West Shrine grid squads were rounding into peak form today for their New Year's day game at Kezar stadium.

The easterners were apparently preparing for a power offensive under the guidance of head coach Andy Kerr. Indiana's juggernaut, Pete Pihos and Purdue's chunky Ed Cody were doing most of the ball-packing in scrimmage sessions and looking in top form.

The West squad, meanwhile, came up to full strength with the belated arrival of Hubert Bechtol, all-American end from Texas.

NYU COACH QUILTS
NEW YORK, Dec. 28—The board of athletic control at New York University today sought a successor to Jack Weinheimer, who resigned yesterday after serving as football coach since 1944.

Mrs. W. E. Luckhart and Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery were visitors in Chillicothe last Monday.

MORE BIG GAMES ON CAGE BILL

Intersectional Clashes Hit
New High Point Tonight
Across Country

By International News Service
East meets West and North meets South tonight as big-time college basketball teams reach new heights in intersectional fury.

Wyoming's Cowboys and C. C. N. Y.'s Lavenders tangle in one half of a Madison Square Garden double bill, the other phase of which will present an intersectional quarrel between Utah and St. John's.

U. C. L. A. and Southern California will be doing business in Philadelphia, meeting St. Joseph's and Temple, respectively. Utah State faces Bradley at Peoria, Ill.; Oregon State engages Canisius at Buffalo, N. Y.; St. Mary's of California invades the lair of the University of St. Louis; Arizona travels to Miami (O.); and Kansas State will play host to an invading Montana State five.

Westward voyaging is brisk, too. Ohio State is at California in the second half of a two-part invasion here launched unsuccessfully last night. Ohio State lost 57-47. Holy Cross

ASHVILLE WIN STREAK HALTED

Canal Winchester Scores
25-21 Over Pickaway
County Cagers

Ashville high school's basketball victory string was stopped at nine Friday night when Canal Winchester won 25-21.

The game at Canal Winchester was close all the way with the home team leading most of the time. At the end of the first period it was 5-2, at the half the score was 8-8 and at the three-quarter mark Ashville trailed by a point, 12-13.

R. Hanners and D. Hartman led Canal Winchester with 9 and 8 points respectively. Don Thomas had 7 for Ashville.

Canal Winchester also won the reserve game, 20-15.

Ashville's next game will be Friday, January 3, when Darby township visits the Ashville floor for a Pickaway county league game.

C & O TO USE ROLLER BEARINGS FREIGHT CARS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28—The Chesapeake & Ohio railway company took the initial step today to introduce into railroading the first largescale utilization of roller bearings in freight-car operations.

C. & O. officials announced that in a joint inquiry with the Nickel Plate road bias have been invited on 2,600 new all-steel units of freight car equipment. Included will be 1,000 70-ton hopper cars to be equipped with roller bearings for use on the C. & O.

A loaded freight car equipped with roller bearings, line officials explained, can be started with one-eighth the power required for a similar car equipped with friction bearings.

With roller bearing cars in service, they added, it might be possible to handle a train of the same number of 70-ton capacity cars fully loaded with the same locomotive now required to handle a similar number of 50-ton capacity cars.

Roller bearings also will insure easier running, the statement said, making possible higher speeds and virtually eliminating hot journal boxes.

EXPLORING UNKNOWN

"Mind and Crime," the story of a suspected paranoid-schizoid on trial for murder, will be presented on "Exploring the Unknown," Sunday, at 9 p. m. The play will deal with the prisoner being subjected to psychological, neurological, psychometric and personality tests and then being committed to a mental hospital rather than a penal institution.

'CAN DO' BOYS GET TRIBUTE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—This is the day the Navy pays tribute to the "can do" boys.

It is the fifth birthday of the fighting Seabees, the Navy's construction gangs who helped to clear a path to victory.

The Seabees—the name comes from the initials C. B., standing for construction battalion, are only 7,000 in number now as compared with a wartime peak strength of 250,000.

But the outfit is a part of the regular Navy and is a skilled nucleus around which a new Seabee force could be built in case of emergency.

The first Seabee regiment was activated on Dec. 28, 1941, when the wreckage at Pearl Harbor symbolized the herculean task awaiting the nation's armed forces.

Welders, carpenters, road builders, mechanics, and artisans representing more than 60 trades signed up to do a job for the Navy. Many of the "boots" were middle-aged. They left lifelong trades to contribute their knowledge to the nation in its time of need.

The Seabees were famous for speed as well as for skill and courage.

The "can do" outfit took part in every major invasion and occupation.

Often they crawled from their bulldozers to blaze away at enemy snipers. Their casualty lists were almost as high as their morale.

The Seabees' wartime chief was Admiral Ben Moreell, now coal mines administrator. The present boss is Admiral John J. Manning, chief of the bureau of yards and docks.

De Gaulle Is Not French Candidate

PARIS, Dec. 28—Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared today that he could not be considered a candidate for the presidency of France.

It was the first official utterance of the French wartime leader since Oct. 11 when he urged the defeat of the present constitution.

De Gaulle declared:

"I do not believe in conscience that it would be right for me to serve my country if I pretend to become the guarantor of a constitution which establishes this regime, and preside powerless in a powerless state."

De Gaulle's statement, issued through his liaison office in Paris, added:

"In duty to France and in respect for the republic, I have made known at proper time that in my opinion government by parties such as they are among our people cannot solve the very grave problems—internal, colonial and foreign—on which our very lives depend."

In attacking the present French constitution preceding last Fall's referendum, De Gaulle had demanded a document which would provide for a strong executive.

Actually De Gaulle's name has been little mentioned in speculation over the election of a president next month. His nomination would certainly have provoked vigorous opposition by the Communist and Socialist parties.

'SNIPPER' IS BEING HUNTED IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Cops and policemen of the nation's capital were on the hunt today for "Jack-The-Sniper," who whacks hanks of hair from pretty girls on Washington trolley cars.

Three times in the last 24 hours the peculiar character has operated. He twice has snipped souvenirs from shoulder-length tresses and once has helped himself to nine inches of a schoolgirl's pigtail.

Maj. Harvey G. Callahan, superintendent of police, warned that the hair bandit may be a potentially dangerous sex maniac and Dr. Winfred Overholser, head of St. Elizabeth's hospital, said "there always is the chance of violence in such cases."

BURGLARIES OF I. SMITH HULSE HOME SOLVED

Sheriff's Department Holds Two Men In Case; Loot Is Recovered

Two men were in jail Saturday accused of three burglaries in recent weeks the home of I. Smith Hulse, Route 2, Circleville, in Jackson township.

The arrests were made Friday night by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Carl Radcliff.

The prisoners are: Everett Estep, 26, trucker, Route 2, Circleville, and Garfield A. Stewart, 24, Route 2, Sunbury.

Loot recovered, the sheriff and deputy said, included all kinds of furniture, rugs, dishes, bed clothing, linens, electric heater, rifle, two pistols and other household furnishings and equipment.

Sheriff Radcliff said the auto load of loot recovered represented most of the items taken from the home during the three burglaries in recent months.

The sheriff said the items recovered were found in the homes of Stewart at Sunbury and Estep's residence in Jackson township.

Charges against the two men will be faced before the grand jury, which is scheduled to be convened Jan. 6.

CHIEF ISSUES RIFLE WARNING

Boy Shot In Hand By Gift Airmen; Parents, Children Informed Of Laws

Warning to parents against permitting children under the age of 17 years to shoot air rifles was sounded Saturday by Police Chief William F. McCrady.

The police chief's warning followed the wounding of a 13-year-old Circleville boy Friday night by another lad, also aged 13. The two quarreled over a dog and one youngster pulled the trigger of an air rifle, the leader pellets entering the hand of the other lad. The wound was not serious.

Pointing out that many boys received air guns from Santa Claus for Christmas, Chief McCrady cited the danger in permitting under-age boys to use the weapons.

He emphasized that a state law bans the sale of air rifles and the pellets to anyone under 17 and also prohibits the firing of an air rifle by anyone under that age. The state law provides a maximum penalty of $100 fine or 30 days in jail, or both.

HOUSING PLANS TO BE SETTLED THIS WEEKEND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—A top-level conference on the fate of the veterans temporary housing program is scheduled for this weekend at the national housing agency.

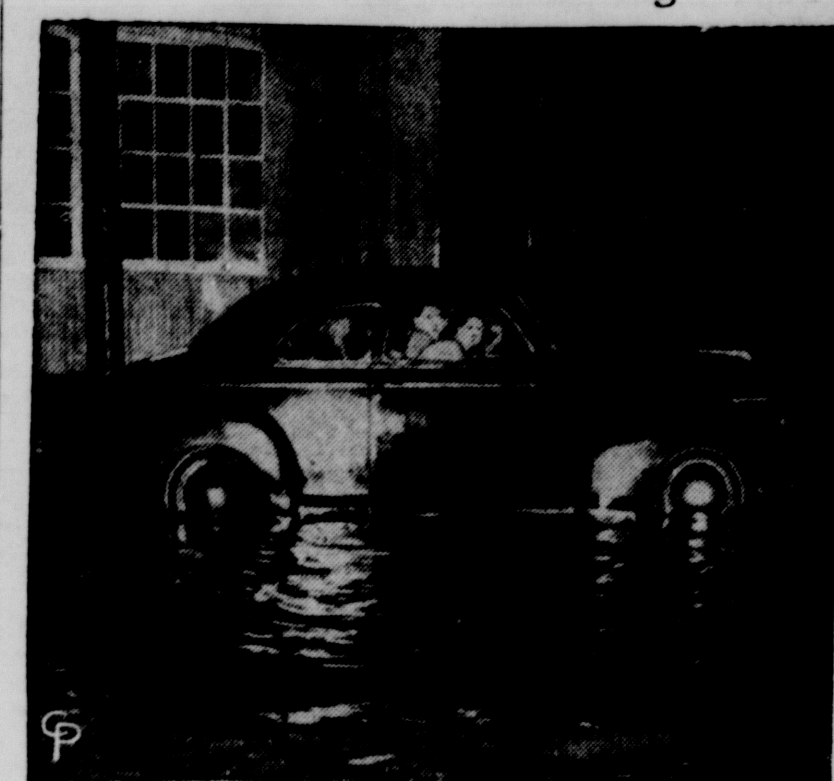

NHA Administrator Raymond Foley told reporters he will meet with Dillon Myer, federal public housing authority head, to determine whether efforts will be made to complete the program. He said an announcement can be expected early next week.

The FHFA has revealed that the program, which called for 200,000 temporary apartments or a larger number of apartments and dormitories for veterans by the end of 1946, is due to fall about 25 percent short of its goal.

IDENTIFY MURDER VICTIM

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—Franklin county sheriff's deputies hoped today that a laundry mark would enable them to make positive identification of a murder victim, whose frozen body was recovered from a creek north of Columbus Thursday. The man was tentatively identified late last night by deputies as Thomas Lemasters, 26, Cellettsburg, Ky., on information furnished by a relative.

Teachers Approve Ohio Minimum Salary of $2,000

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—Delegates to the annual Ohio Education Association convention wound up its convention today after unanimously adopting a three-point legislative program and electing new officers at Columbus.

The OEA program to the general assembly calls for a state law establishing a minimum salary of $2,000 for Ohio teachers with four years training.

Included in the program for the assembly was a plan to increase state aid to public schools from $59,000,000 to $92,000,000 yearly. This could be done, according to the program, by raising the flat grant from $45 to $60 for elementary pupils and from $54 to $72 for high school students. The state program of equalizing school facilities would be accomplished by upping minimum support to $109 and $131 for grammar and high school students respectively.

The educators' also sought emergency action by the new legislature to increase the present foundation program 30 percent. This increase, estimated at $8,500,000, would be used only for teacher and school personnel salaries.

New officers elected at closing sessions of the three-day meeting include:

H. F. Vallance, director of the teacher placement bureau at Miami University, Oxford, president, and John J. Young of Rocky River, re-elected vice president. Robert B. Oldfather, Palmsville, and Merrill F. Cooley, Warren, were elected to the executive committee.

During final sessions of the OEA:

12-POINT PLAN TO HELP OHIO CITIES READY

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28—Columbus and Franklin county Republican office holders released a 12-point program today designed to help ease the financial crises of Ohio cities and counties.

A committee report, subject to approval by all office holders, will be recommended to the next legislature. Ten of the recommendations would benefit municipalities and two counties.

Those to aid cities include: continuation of state revenue allocations; vacation of utility and admissions tax fields by the state in favor of municipalities; authorization of a municipal liquor tax; revision of cigarette, estate and inheritance and gas and auto tax allocations; appropriation of $10,000,000 directly to municipalities; earmarking of state funds for police and firemen's pensions, and matching of relief hospitalization costs by the state.

For county help, the plan suggests: allocation to counties of revenue from state intangible taxes, and assumption of common pleas court officials' salaries by the state.

Sugar Regulations Come In For Discussion While Butter Probe Goes On

By International News Service

Government officials agreed in the nation's capital today that food prices will remain high in 1947 and gradually fall to prewar levels as supply catches up with demand.

The prices of dairy products, meat, eggs, poultry, vegetables and fruits are expected to stay above prewar levels for most of next year. Agriculture department price experts said that there are no prospects of a sharp price drop for any food item despite the sudden fall of butter prices Wednesday.

Government investigators, meanwhile, were checking butter transactions during the past month on the New York butter market in an effort to uncover any attempt by producers to withhold from the market. The investigation was ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Sen. Butler (R) Nebr., went on record at the same time against any immediate change in the government's sugar program which Anderson contends is being undermined by profit-seeking sugar brokers.

Butler, whose state is a major sugar-beet producer, conceded that he was "not altogether in love with the sugar program," but added: "I advocate no change for the moment. I'm interested in the consumers—to see that they get more sugar and at a fair price."

Sen. Thomas (D) Okla., chairman of the senate agriculture committee, declined to comment on Anderson's blast against New York sugar brokers except to say: "Secretary Anderson has pretty good ideas about those matters."

It was considered virtually certain, meanwhile, that the senate was investigating committee will issue a majority report condemning Sen. Bilbo (D) Miss., for his relations with war contractors.

Five of the nine remaining committee members—four Republicans and one Democrat—were described as ready to sign a report holding that Bilbo made improper use of his office as a senator. One senator said that the tenth member, Sen. Mitchell (D) Wash., was (Continued on Page Two)

ADMIRAL BYRD EXPLORERS NEAR POLAR ICE PACK

WITH ADMIRAL BYRD'S ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION, Dec. 28—The great polar ice pack, immediate objective of the central task group of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's fourth Antarctic expedition, was literally just over the horizon today.

But Rear Adm. Richard Cruzen, commander of this group, maintained the cautious attitude which proves the worth of veteran polar navigators.

Instead of plunging onward, Cruzen—who has had experience in treacherous seas of both the Arctic and Antarctic—postponed his plans for penetrating the huge ice mass as menacing fogs steadily narrowed visibility and rendered navigation extremely hazardous.

The central command group approached to within about 40 miles of the great polar cap at noon Friday, and Cruzen thereupon changed his course.

Now, instead of driving south toward the pack, the four vessels are sailing parallel to it. The change in sailing plans was necessitated because radar, while excellent for spotting icebergs, has virtually no value in signaling out the formidable barrier of pack-ice. Thus, the change in course was taken to avert any possibility of a head-on with the pack.

Navy Officers Tell More About Soviet Ultimatum

By WILLIAM H. NEWTON
Representing the Combined World Press

Distributed by International News Service

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28—From two of the United States Navy officers who were on the bridge of the ship when the incident took place came further details today of the Soviet ultimatum ordering a Navy courier vessel to leave the port of Dairen within 20 minutes "or we will not be responsible for the consequence."

The officers are Lt. Comdr. W. Gordon Cornell of Staten Island, N. Y., and Lt. (jg) Charles D. Arthur, of Pittsburgh. Cornell served four years at sea during the war and holds the Navy cross. Both Commander Cornell and Lt. Arthur are Navy information officers, and both accompanied the courier vessel on its trip to Dairen.

Their story of the incident aboard the Navy vessel is in sharp contrast to the recent announcement by a "spokesman" for the state department that the Soviets did not "in any sense" issue an ultimatum to the Navy ship. Both officers had been ashore and came aboard just before the Soviet ultimatum was issued.

"As we came through the gate of the port a Russian major jumped forward," Lt. Arthur said, "He assailed us verbally shrieking at us and pointing to the ship. We tried to let him understand that we did not speak Russian."

"We were quite aware of the fact, however, that he was very upset and angry about something. A Russian navy officer who was also present at the gate apparently tried to moderate the Russian army major."

"Accompanied by the Russian major and the naval officer we went aboard. Commander Edgar Yates, the ship commander, met us and they all went to the bridge. I followed them and that is when I noticed that they were talking in the same harsh manner to Commander Yates."

"When the ultimatum was given, Ensign Tilghman Koons, the Navy interpreter, asked the Russian major to repeat it so he could get a perfectly accurate translation. This the Russian major did. I think Ensign Koons had him repeat it three times in all."

"This was before the American consul, Mr. Benninghoff, or the

FIRE DAMAGES BARN AND AUTO AT STOUTSVILLE

Fire badly damaged a barn and an automobile at the home of Richard Justice, at Stoutsville, early Saturday.

Circleville firemen were summoned at 3:40 a. m. While they were making the 8-mile run to Stoutsville neighbors formed a bucket brigade in a futile attempt to extinguish the flames. The blazing automobile was removed from the barn.

Firemen said that a short circuit in the car may have caused the fire. The loss was unestimated. According to firemen, Etta Huffman is the owner of the property.

AIRLINER READY TO LAND WHEN MISHAP OCCURS

TEN AMERICANS KILLED

Nine Passengers Are Fatally Hurt In Crash And Resulting Explosion

SHANNON, Eire, Dec. 28—A Constellation airliner enroute from Paris to New York crashed just sixty seconds away from it landing at Shannon airport today, taking a death-toll of 12 persons.

All other 11 persons aboard the huge TWA trans-ocean craft were injured.

The death list came to 12 when the London office of TWA added the names of Flight Engineer Walker McBride of Alexandria, Va., and Radio Officer Hubert Burmeister of Washington, D. C., to the victims.

Flames from the wreckage of the Trans-World Airline Constellation rose hundreds of feet into the air. The explosion shook the foundations of the airport buildings two and a half miles away.

TWA earlier announced that 12 persons were killed in the crash but later amended its report with the lower figure.

Nine of the dead were passengers. The 10th was the plane's navigator, R. A. Osterberg, of Presidential Park Gardens, Alexandria, Va. He was pronounced dead on arrival at nearby Barington hospital.

Many of the survivors were seriously injured and were removed to hospitals.

TWA identified other dead as: Allan Charles Lanyon, Washington, D. C.

Clementine Jeanne Pugh, Philadelphia.

Professor Alexander Haim Pekelis, New York.

Frances Joseph Salabert, Paris.

Lucienne Simone Clerc, Paris.

Marie Zelaznegora, New York City.

Pierre Dreyfus, New York City.

Maurice Simon Picard, Flushing, New York.

Herman Koegel, New York City.

The following were admitted to St. John's hospital:

Davis N. Tannenbaum, 49, New York, company director, suffering from shock and bruises.

William Teale, 30, Paris, unconscious.

Mrs. Edith Augustine Delaby, wife of American GI, Newark, N. J., badly burned, with injuries to lower limbs.

Charles Bruce Delaby, her five-months-old son, burns and a fractured leg.

Catherine Ferguson, 25, the plane's hostess, New York City, shock and knee injuries.

Admitted to the county hospital at Ennis suffering from serious injuries were Dudley Hill, 34, of Virginia, an unidentified 12-year-old. (Continued on Page Two)

FOUR MEN HELD FOR BEATING UP TOWN MARSHAL

Four men living near Laurelville, charged with beating Carl Swackhammer, Laurelville town marshal, were arrested in a dwelling near Laurelville, Friday night by Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Pontius and Lou McClellan, Laurelville mayor.

The four, who were subsequently removed to the Hocking county jail at Logan, are: Forrest Kneecoe, Leonard Kneecoe, his brother, Merrill Congrove, and Berman Schwabach.

Mayor McClellan said that Marshal Swackhammer had placed the quartet under arrest on a speeding charge and that in the ensuing argument the four men beat the marshal severely. The latter was removed to his home.

The alleged assailants of the marshal were taken into custody by Deputy Pontius and Mayor McClellan shortly after an alarm had been broadcast over the State Highway Patrol radio system.

U. S. READY TO CLAIM ICY LAND

Sovereignty Over Sections Of Antarctica May Be Established Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The United States stood ready today to press a claim for sovereignty over huge sections of Antarctica if some other power should assert it has an exclusive right to any part of that unknown territory.

A statement of U. S. policy was issued by the state department as expeditions from American shores and foreign lands raced to establish claim to the frigid ice-cap.

Thus far no official statement has been made as to what the competing countries hope to find in the huge ice-covered continent. The most glib explanation is evidence of huge uranium deposits underneath. Others contend that operations in the area may establish tests of polar equipment and military operations.

Whatever the reason, Russia, Australia, Britain, Argentina and Chile are reported in or about to enter the race. The U. S. expedition is believed to have the lead on most of the others.

The statement of U. S. policy on claims to territory in the ice-capped land was inspired by reports of a controversy over a British expedition which settled in Marguerite bay during the war. It was set up near a station established in the 1940-41 expedition. (Continued on Page Two) old French boy and Flight Officer Herbert Tansey, Falls Church, Va. Gunther N. Lubeyski (identified by TWA in Paris as a Frenchman), was removed to Barrington hospital suffering from critical fractures of both legs and left arm and internal injuries.

The plane, which had left Paris at midnight, crashed on to Bag Island in the Shannon river estuary at 2:15 a. m. (9:15 p. m. EST yesterday.)

The first rescue party to arrive at the scene of the crash was led by Capt. T. S. Harrington, a trans-Atlantic pilot.

He said: "There were only one or two people at the scene when we got there. There was a terrific struggle to reach the plane. The mud was knee deep and the island was one vast bog condition."

"It was simply unbelievable," Harrington, who is scheduled to fly to New York this afternoon, said the plane obviously broke its back when it crashed and then caught fire.

He commented: "It would have been difficult for the crew or any of those in the front of the plane to escape, particularly due to the explosion and fire."

Miss Catherine Ferguson, hostess, said: "I had just told the passengers to fasten their safety belts and prepare for a landing when the crash occurred."

"That's the last I remember until I got out of the airplane."

LEGAL EXPERTS PUZZLE OVER SILVER HOARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Army legal experts thumbed through their law books today for an answer to what should be done with the German Hohenzollern silver treasure brought to this country from Berlin by the 175th regiment. It was disclosed that the 500 settings of silverware carrying Imperial crest have been removed from a vault of the fifth regiment army in Baltimore to the customs bureau there for appraisal.

Unofficial estimates of the value of the trove start at $200,000. Customs officials disclosed that they plan to turn the seized fortune in silver over to Army headquarters in Washington when an evaluation is made.

Army lawyers admitted that this poses a thorny legal problem for them to untangle. Belief was expressed by some that no law exists which would permit the United States to keep the silver.

They added, however, that it might be used to cover partial reparations charged up against Germany.

Moreover, should it be found that the fortune can be retained in the United States rather than returned to Germany, sources expected to be close to the case are at a loss as to what disposition should be made of the silver in this country.

'SPIRIT OF '76' CREATOR'S LOST DRAWING FOUND

By International News Service
CHARDON, O.—A lost painting by the creator of the famous canvases, "Spirit of '76," was found recently in the attic of a nearby Rock Creek woman.

The picture depicts a rock on which two figures stand in mountain background. Simplicity of design and coloring, characteristic of Willard, are predominant in the work.

Mrs. William McClusky, while visiting the Geauga Historical Museum at Burton, viewed several paintings by the Rev. Samuel Willard, father of Archibald Willard, the well-known Ohio artist.

Mrs. McClusky, recalling that she lived in the house which was once the home of a nephew of Willard, rummaged through the attic until she found another painting by the famous Willard.

Mrs. McClusky presented the painting to the Geauga museum.

AUTOS COLLIDE

Automobile driven north on Court street by Paul V. Friday. Both cars were damaged, police said, but nobody was hurt.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28.—As a three-day meeting of the Association of American Geographers opened today at Ohio State University, approximately 125 geographers from the world over met in convention at the American Society for Professional Geographers.

Both groups met on the OSU campus, while a third group, the National Council of Geography Teachers, was convened in a two-day session at a Columbus hotel.

SENATORS NOT SATISFIED WITH PRESENT SETUP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Sen. Reed (R) Kas., challenged the senate Republican leadership's committee assignment slate today which leaves him without a chairmanship.

Reed said he will contest assignment of the public lands chairmanship to Sen. Butler, Neb.

If he succeeds, it might upset the whole slate which the committee on committees has agreed to submit to the Republican conference Monday. This is because Butler also is eligible to the finance committee chairmanship.

Reed is eligible by seniority to the civil service committee chairmanship. But he did not ask for it, and it fell to Sen. Langer (R) N. D., in the leadership's slate.

Depriving the veteran Kansan of any chairmanship intensified the explosive situation that already existed. A half-dozen or more senators were dissatisfied with their assignments and actively preparing for a conference fight.

It was disclosed also that the committee on committees itself was split.

TEACHER STRIKE AT ST. PAUL TO END JANUARY 6

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 28.—The St. Paul City council today awaited receipt of a certified charter amendment as 1,165 public school teachers ended their five-weeks-long strike for higher wages and school improvements.

The teachers promised to report for classes in the city's 77 public schools Monday, Jan. 6.

The close of their strike was announced last night, after the city's charter commission took favorable action on an amendment which provides three million dollars more annually for school operations.

The amendment now goes to the voters in a special election which the city council said it would call within six weeks.

The teachers made it plain they would retain the right to strike again should the amendment be defeated at the special election. The salary schedule provides a range of $2,400 to $4,200 for teachers with a bachelor's degree. The present salary range is $1,300 to $2,600.

OHIOANS WARNED COLD WEATHER TO HIT TONIGHT

By International News Service
Ohioans were warned today to prepare for Minnesota and Michigan weather this weekend in contrast to last night's Florida mildness.

In contrast to a 40-degree rise in temperature over a 24-hour period yesterday, the mercury already had plunged 20 degrees by 10:30 a. m. today in many Ohio places and probably will drop another 20 points by tomorrow morning.

The Cleveland weather bureau reported a reading of 58 at 6:30 a. m. this morning and 39 only four hours later. The only part of the state not affected before noon by the falling mercury was the extreme southeast portion. Temperatures were not expected to hold up much longer there.

This morning's high of 59 degrees in Cleveland broke a 39-year record of 56 degrees. In turning itself around, the weather played peculiar tricks with mercury readings.

Sandusky was another place where the 1907 high was broken. Today's reading of 60 gave the lake port its warmest Dec. 28 on record. The previous high was 57 degrees.

Columbus reported a minimum after midnight higher than the maximum before 12 o'clock. The 63 degrees registered in Cincinnati and Parkersburg, W. Va., topped the places reporting over the state. Zanesville trailed Columbus by only point with 60.

The lowest reading recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today was 39 at Findlay.

More snow will fall tonight with temperatures of from 10 to 20 degrees predicted for the state. Sunday will bring more cloudiness and quite cold weather with additional snow flurries along the lake.

U. S. OFFICIALS CHECKING UP ON MEXICAN CATTLE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The Agriculture Department is launching a widespread investigation to determine whether cattle imported from Mexico during the meat shortage brought any of the dread "foot and mouth" disease into U.S. livestock herds.

Dr. Severin O. Fladness, chief of the department's bureau of animal husbandry field inspection division, disclosed that spot checks are being made to locate areas into which Mexican cattle were shipped.

Fladness said that no sign of the disease has yet been reported within the United States. But he labeled the disease as "extremely contagious" and said it spreads rapidly.

tion of Commander Richard E. Byrd, the most pretentious up to that time. Huts, mechanical equipment and supplies were hurriedly left when approaching Winter forced a departure.

Recently the state department asked London to find out the condition of this equipment. This has been done, with the warning, however, that the seal situation was bad—not enough to supply the men and dogs of both stations.

In its formal statement on U. S. claims, the state department said:

"In this connection, the U. S. government has not recognized any claims of any other nations in the Antarctic and has reserved all rights which it may have in those areas. On the other hand, the United States has never formally asserted any claims, but claims have been asserted in its behalf by American citizens."

12 PERSONS ARE FOUND DEAD IN PLANE WRECKAGE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 28.—A detachment of 25 Marines and 10 forest rangers were scheduled to leave today to remove the bodies from the wreckage of a Western Airlines plane on the northeast slope of Cuyapipa peak in the rugged Laguna mountains east of San Diego.

Twelve persons, nine passengers and a crew of three, died in the Christmas eve crash of the plane.

A ground crew reached the wreckage yesterday after deputy sheriffs spotted it with field glasses from a vantage point in the valley.

The ship was en route from El Centro, Cal., to San Diego when it crashed against the 6375-foot peak. The men reaching the wreckage said that the wing and tail sections came through the crash reasonably intact but that the fuselage was both badly smashed and burned.

All of the victims were residents of southern California.

MOTHER, CHILD DIE OF BURNS AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28.—The attempt of a young housewife to rekindle a stove with kerosene resulted today in the death of Mrs. Leona Marshall, 22, and her five-month-old son, Leonard Arthur.

Flames destroyed the three-room cottage of Mrs. Marshall and her husband, Clifford, 32, at Columbus yesterday afternoon when the stove apparently exploded.

Mrs. Marshall was found lying in the yard with her clothes almost completely burned off. She died early today in a hospital. The infant burned to death in the house as flames prevented his rescue.

Two other Marshall children, Annie May, 5, and Mary Lee, 3, escaped without injury. Their father was at work when the fire occurred.

to take a stand on the question by refraining from voting, or you vote for this sound and basic principle of enduring justice and plain common sense."

Herbert Bayard Swope, advisor to Baruch, said afterward that the United States would insist on a specific ban of the veto. Those nations who demonstrated outright support for the United States attitude were Brazil, China, Egypt, Australia and Mexico.

France led the fight against the inclusion of the word "veto," maintaining that the American wording would violate the UN charter and cause dissension among the powers. French Delegate Alexander Parodi said he was fully in favor of removing the veto on punishment but that this was already provided for in the draft without its specific mentioning.

The nations which lined up with his viewpoint were Poland, the United Kingdom, Canada and the Netherlands. The British and Canadians said they did this in the hope of getting a unanimous agreement, but stipulated they would vote with the majority on a show-down.

Soviet Russia clung to her recent policy of "non-participation" by breaking a day-long silence at 6:45 p. m. to request that it be recorded with the atomic energy commission that she had not participated in the discussion.

Paul Claims the World for Christ

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 29 is Acts 9:15; 19:21; 23:11; 28:28-31; Romans 1:13-16; 10:16-18; 15:22-24, the Memory Verse being Matthew 28:19, "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations.")

THIS LAST lesson on Paul, his life and missionary journeys, reminds us that the reason that churches were scattered all over Asia in the first century, was because one man, Paul, had a passion for spreading the gospel to the whole world, and devoted his life to this cause in spite of the hardships of travel and persecutions which included assaults on his person.

Our first reference in Acts takes us back to the time Paul, then an ardent persecutor of Christians, burning with zeal to stamp them out in Damascus and take all he found in chains back to Jerusalem, was stopped by the vision of Jesus, and blinded. Led into Damascus he was lodged in a house in the street called Straight.

That night, a devout man of Damascus named Ananias was startled out of sleep by a vision, and the Lord told him to go to Paul, or Saul as he was then called. Saul had had a vision, said the Lord, he was blinded and was praying. Ananias said he had heard much evil of this man and that he had come to Damascus to persecute the Lord's saints there.

"But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto Me, to bear My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel." You remember that Ananias did as he was told and Paul's sight was restored.

At this time, Paul probably had no idea that he would be called upon to fill so great a place as he did in the world.

Paul Goes to Jerusalem
"After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome." His friends tried to dissuade him from going to Jerusalem, but he persisted, and there certain persons who were from Asia stirred up the people against him, and to save him from beatings, the Romans took him into custody. He was put in prison and doubtless felt disheartened, but the night following these disturbances the Lord "stood by him, and said, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou hast testified of Me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also as Rome."

Why did Paul want so much to go to Rome? That city was then the center of the world. It was a powerful, splendid and populous city. It attracted the leaders in every business and profession, social leaders and those with political aspirations.

The letter to the Romans was probably written two years before his arrest at Jerusalem. He had not seen Rome then and we do not know who founded the church in that city, but there was a church there. He writes:

"I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes I purposed to come unto you (but was let hitherto), that I might have some fruit among you also, even among other Gentiles."

"I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the unwise."

"So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also."

The epithet barbarian was applied to persons who were not Greeks, as the Greek civilization excelled all others. The "wise and unwise" is thought to denote the cultured and uncultured.

Later, in Romans 15, Paul refers again to the hindrances that have kept him from visiting Rome, and writes that "But now, having no more place in these parts, and having a great desire these many years to come unto you, Whosoever I take on my journey, I will come to see you in my journey, and to be brought to my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled with your company."

Whether Paul ever went to Spain we do not know, but his desire to visit Rome, as we see, was very strong. He wanted to preach the gospel of Christ in that "first city" of the then known world—indeed, it seems that it was a passion with him so to do.

Alas, most of the time he was in Rome it was as a prisoner, even though he was allowed to live in his own house, with a Roman soldier guarding him, and to talk freely with all who came to see this great apostle, and many came. His letters written to various churches when he was a prisoner in that city are among the greatest sermons ever preached in all the world.

There have been many missionaries since Paul's time, but none who did so much for the church, none who more implicitly obeyed the injunction: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations."

A tourist party traveling in the South came upon a little colored boy carrying another boy almost as large as himself. The car slowed down to get a better look at the human-interest picture. One of the men in the front seat leaned out of the open window on his elbow and addressed the elder boy:

"That boy you are carrying there," he said, "is too heavy for you." "Shucks mister," replied the boy, "he ain't heavy, he's my brother."

What a lesson in life this little experience teaches. Often we are averse to shouldering the burden of a brother in distress, because we feel that our own burdens are heavy enough without taking on someone else's problems.

Yet, as we look at this picture, we see that although the elder boy looks as if he had all he could carry, he is smiling and the load seems light. He is making his brother happy.

The bible and the church teach us that indeed we are "our brother's keeper," and that by shouldering the burdens of one less fortunate than ourselves, our faces will light up with the sheer joy of doing a good deed for someone else.

In an age when self interest is perhaps at the peak of its greatest expression, we could do with a little more cooperation. Neighborliness and kindness give one a feeling of inner well-being. Lifting the load from the shoulders of another and helping him when he is in distress is pleasing in the sight of God. Let's try to be more helpful.

'INVENTORY' IS SERMON TOPIC AT EUB CHURCH

"The 1946 Spiritual Inventory," is the sermon topic chosen by the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, East Main street, for the closing 10:30 a. m. divine worship of the year.

Adapting her organ selections to the sermon theme, Miss Lucille Kirkwood will play Steere's composition, "The New Year's Coming In," "Offertory" by Saint Saens and "March" by Craig.

The choir under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick will sing an appropriate anthem.

In announcing the sermon topic, the Rev. Mr. Wilson says, "Successful business demands and must have an accurate inventory at certain periods of the year. This careful check of merchandise on hand gives a detailed picture of the business from a past state to present conditions to a future prospective. As good business policy demands an accurate inventory of its employees for successful operation so God demands a careful spiritual inventory from every individual Christian for the successful and efficient operation of the church."

The Junior church meets in the children's chapel at 10:30 a. m. with a lesson study suited to juvenile appreciation. This group has its own order of worship, including a choir processional, special vocal and instrumental numbers of special music and ushers. The children further participate by sharing in the scripture reading, congregational singing and prayers. All children from four to twelve years of age are invited to attend. Parents may bring such aged children to church with them and be assured they will enjoy a well planned and executed worship service. Miss Gladys Noggle, Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood, Jr., and Mrs. Carl L. Wilson supervise the work.

At 6:00 p. m. the Youth Fellowship meets in the Sunday school room with Jean Spangler leading the lesson study and discussion period. All young people from 12 to 24 years of age are invited.

In the evening evangelistic service at 7:30 p. m., the pastor will speak on the topic, "Our New Year's Ebenezer," with a scriptural directive from I Samuel 7:12.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Previous to the regular hour of worship Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran church, a group of children will be baptised. Parents bringing children are requested to be present at 10 a. m.

Confirmation service will be held at 10:15 a. m. at which time 11 adults will be received into full membership.

Subject of the Rev. George L. Troutman's sermon will be "My Solemn Pledge on the Last Sunday of the Year."

The senior choir, under the direction of Carl C. Leist, will present the anthem, "He shall be Called Great." Miss Janice Merrill, of the voice department of Evanston College Institute, Chicago, Ill., will be a guest soloist for this service.

RING-RUN ELECTIONS

WHO manages the election booths and counts the ballots in the average American community? "Unskilled ring officials having a direct interest in the outcome instead of disinterested, honest civil service experts", says Murray Season-good, former mayor of Cincinnati. He goes on.

"In the election machinery is the most flagrant violation of the ancient maxim, 'No man shall be a judge of his own case'. Gross election frauds are perpetrated and both machines make common cause against the citizen intruder, particularly the independent trying to break through in the party primaries. The ballot, rigged so as to make the cross mark under an emblem effective for more than a score of offices from president to coroner, is itself an intolerable aid to control of government through the ignorant or corrupt."

An election conducted from start to final count by independent, public-spirited citizens might reveal plenty of surprises in communities that do not dream that anything is the matter with their election machinery.

RUSSIAN SHIFT

SOME observers believe that the next three months will show a shift in emphasis of Russian policy from matters involving boundaries and influence to those covering internal affairs.

Inside Russia thousands of new homes are needed, as they are here, and factories need re-building for the manufacture of many articles which will make life easier and pleasanter for the people. Railroads, which have been badly damaged, need reconstruction and the rolling stock must be replenished. Soldiers who have been fretting out their days in occupation duty and in border-watching are to be brought home to take part in these constructive operations.

Their war effort was very great and signally successful. Perhaps the peace-time program may be carried out with the increased efficiency resulting from the fact that the people will be building comfort for themselves.

BETTER USE FOR RICE

MUCH applause has been going to the mid-western Catholic priest who forbade rice to be thrown at brides and grooms in his church. He wants any parishioners who have enough rice to toss about to save it and donate to famine relief instead of throwing away good food.

At this season when everyone tends to eat more than is good for him, it does no harm to think a little of those millions in other lands who are starving. Not only wedding rice but a good many edibles could be diverted to better use. Certainly there is no place in our economy for waste.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The liberals are not "liberals" any more—since election they have become "progressives". The word liberals illfitted them. Liberal means freedom, but they stood for a rather ruthless centralized authoritarian democracy in the new deal and they favored single-minded domination of people in such totalitarian states as Russia, and political alliances with their American representatives such as the Communist dominated American labor party in New York.

The liberals must have been reading this column. You really have to read it to keep up with the swift changing times. They must have read particularly the one published August 9 which pointed out they could discontinue their search for the answer of what was wrong with liberalism, then being conducted by their new republic magazine now openly under the leadership of a politician who wants to go half-way to Russian theories, Henry Wallace. The trouble with liberalism, I then reported, was that it was not liberal. It did not stand for freedom of individuals but for the opposite—totalitarianism.

Now they have changed the name, but not the policy. They have neglected to correct their basic mistake, but wish to perpetuate it by calling it "progressive".

This is somewhat reactionary. The term "progressive" is hardly new. It simply means progress. In all my living days as a political reporter, I never heard of a politico who did not advocate progress. No one is against it. Therefore it embraces a scope which depreciates its descriptive quality. Utopians would be a better descriptive name for them, but they lost under this title because they only talked about Utopia and doubt about their ability to deliver Utopia on earth became too widespread.

At any rate Messrs. Morgenthau, Ickes, Phil Murray, et al, decided after election to meet here in January and call themselves by a new name, "The Conference of Progressives", which, as I say, is rather hopelessly reactionary. In my lifetime, the title was used exclusively by the late Senator Robert LaFollette back when the 20th century was in its teens. The Utopian ex-liberals are thus reacting in name only to the LaFollette era, which will be hard for them to do otherwise because LaFollette hated and distrusted the very Communists with whom they sympathize and appease. Progressive, therefore, actually seems to mean progress backward more than 25 years.

This reactionism will be interesting in Russia which is trying to classify everyone in the world who does not want to give Russia what she selfishly wants as a reactionary—although Russia, herself is in truth the most reactionary government in the world today. It is, I believe, the oldest. It wants to react the world to its 1917 revolution and beyond that back to Marx and his obsolete theories of more than 100 years ago. Russia is truly reactionary because it is the only major world government which has not modernized itself, but clings to its backward and unsuccessful ways, an economic system which has never produced comparably with the rest of the world, and a political system which has not been changed in 30 years. Britain has a socialist labor government (Russia does not allow a union except meaninglessly under state control). The United States had its new deal and reformation. Only Russia has failed to progress.

Big Union Wage Drives

Admission of Ex-Foes

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Nearly every big union in the country has launched or is talking about 1947 wage drives—all except the railroad brotherhoods.

Rail union chiefs are well aware of the general wage movement, but they are resisting demands of their membership that they climb on the bandwagon.

Not that they don't want higher wages. Quite the contrary. But the leaders believe their best strategy is to mark time for several months and watch the price picture.

LOOK FOR FRESH OUTBURSTS from the Communist press throughout the world at the admission into the United States of Nazis and others who sided with the Axis during the war.

Moscow has already clamored against issuance of a visa for Hjalmar J. Procope, former Finnish minister in Washington. Procope would prefer to join his British wife and two children in Britain. But he cannot go there because Britain has not yet signed the Finnish peace treaty.

Kurt Sell, former German newspaperman in Washington, was repatriated after Pearl Harbor, and since then, has worked in Lisbon where he has maintained a scrupulous silence in associating with his peace-time acquaintances. Sell's friends who knew him before Hitler rose to power—and probably he has many—doubt that he ever was a thorough Nazi. Yet his return would probably arouse much criticism.

The National Football League no longer has the air-tight hold that it had since the pro game started. The infant All-America Conference has changed all that, and top-ranking college players can wait for a while next year, before they sign their contracts, to select the highest bid.

Hereafter, they had to take what they could get in the National League draft. Now the All-America Conference, which was not hesitant about accepting players who jumped from the National league in 1946, is expected to make the salary business tougher. Some sports observers even see a greater use of bonuses to attract the better prospects.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS BELIEVE that one piece of administration legislation that will get the right-of-way in the new Republican-dominated 80th Congress will be some sort of Army-Navy merger bill.

The Republicans generally are not hostile to President Truman's plan, which did not come up for a vote in the 79th Congress. Uppermost in their minds is the thought of economy which seems to be inherent in any plan to unify the armed forces.

The president's recent order merging sea, air and land commands in the various areas is also regarded as a long step in this direction.

POLITICAL WISEACRES, who are not taken in by his quiet manners and public silence, are eyeing Senator Eugene Millikin (R) of Colorado. To his party colleagues, he's still a "junior" senator, but his name has been mentioned for some of the top posts.

Had Senator Wallace White (R) of Maine declined the majority leadership in the 80th Congress, Millikin looked to be the compromise selection. There is still a move afoot to create a "deputy majority leader." Observers say it will be Millikin. He has not enough seniority for a regular committee chairmanship, but he will head the important joint Congressional atomic committee.

Millikin regards himself as a "moderator," who "weaves" conflicting views into a workable solution. The World War I Army colonel is not given to lengthy statements to reporters. "I'm not going to shoot off my mouth," he says.

WATCH FOR SOME SPIRITED BIDDING when pro football club owners shop around for likely prospects among the 1946 crop of college stars.

Many Causes for Chest Pains

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SEVENTY-FIVE different causes for pain in the chest are listed in the medical books. Thus, patients suffering from this common and often serious symptom cannot expect a couple of thumps and a few minutes examination with the stethoscope to reveal the exact source of his trouble. As a matter of fact, correct determination of the cause of chest pain requires not only laboratory tests and X-ray examination, but seasoned judgment on the part of the doctor.

Perhaps the most frequent cause of such pain is not disorder within the chest itself, but strain or injury to the muscles which overlay it. In these cases, fortunately, diagnosis is easy.

Extent of Injury

Treatment depends upon the extent of the injury but, in many instances, merely strapping the chest with adhesive tape to keep the movements of the muscles limited to some extent will relieve pain and allow the condition to clear up. The application of heat and gentle massage also may be of value.

There is a disorder known as pleurodynia which causes pain on one side of the chest, the pain being more common on the left side. The pain is made worse by deep breathing, coughing, or yawning. In this disorder there is also some tenderness in the muscle. Treatment is much like that for muscle strain, and the disorder clears up without any complications.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

WHEN THEY had collected Mary's things and were ready to go, Mary bade her grandmother a casual goodbye. Philip, seeing the tears that Mrs. Garrett could not keep back, was puzzled as he had been before by Mary's indifference. He had not forgotten Dr. Somers' advice about not letting her get too attached to him, and he had been hoping that she would transfer some of her affection to Anne; but if this was all she cared about her grandmother, who was the only mother she'd known, what could he expect?

He was still thinking about Mary when Anne's voice recalled him to the immediate present and its concrete problems. "I just thought of something. Maybe the lights and gas won't be on. Mrs. Lane wasn't expecting us until tomorrow. Wouldn't it be awful if we couldn't spend the night in our new home after all?" "Awful," said Mary. "Let's not believe it. Maybe they're on."

"If they're not, we'll be there in time to get them turned on," Philip assured her with a laugh. They need not have worried. The house was ready for them—cleaned and dusted. The beds were made up; the electric refrigerator was filled with food; and the morning paper was on the table in the living room beside the most comfortable chair.

Philip picked up the telephone and heard a satisfying buzz. "Mrs. Lane surely did herself proud," he commented. "When do we eat?" "Now I really believe I'm married," said Anne. "Come on, Mary! Let's get our things off and fix this man some food."

"And then we'll get Micky?" They went upstairs, and Philip turned on the radio. Though he tried all the stations, he could find nothing but grief-filled serials and he finally shut it off. There was an immediate outcry from Mary, who had come back into the room. "I love the Happy Eatons," she said.

"They didn't sound very happy to me," Philip turned it back on. "Grandma listens to them all the time."

"She does?" He stretched out on the couch and opened the News. Presently the Happy Eatons went off with dire prophecies concerning next day's episode, and an orchestra took its place. Philip let the paper fall. He'd better call Somers after lunch and see if he was needed. ... It would be nice to loaf around home the first day. ... This couch was certainly comfortable. ... Mary was shaking his arm. "Ham and eggs, Philip. Come and get it."

He sat up rubbing his eyes. "Was I asleep?" Anne was laughing at him from the doorway. "The poor, tired doctor! He's been working so hard."

Home! Philip lay on the couch listening with contentment to his favorite Sunday evening program. A faint pink glow from the alabaster lamp Mr. Bowman had made in the shape of a lighthouse, and a red glow from the fireplace, was the only illumination in the room. This was the time when you appreciated home—when it was snowing outside, and you had waded about in slush all day. He had even visited Somers, who had a touch of flu, and some of Somers' patients besides. But it was almost worth getting so tired, to enjoy such complete rest as this.

Anne was up in Mary's room having a bedtime visit. Pretty soon she would come down and fix some sandwiches and coffee, and they would eat here in front of the fire. The orchestra was playing something that sounded like Massenet's "Elegy," but wasn't. He had heard it before somewhere.

He was almost asleep when the doorbell cut through the music and the privacy with its threat of invasion. He heard Anne's step on the stair and lay still, hoping that whoever it was had the wrong house.

A moment later Anne switched the lights on, and he heard her voice in greeting. He sat up resignedly and recognized, after a confused moment, some friends of the Lanes whom he had practically forgotten and had certainly never expected to see on his own doorstep.

With automatic cordiality he added his welcome to Anne's, and in a few minutes Mr. and Mrs. Thompson had shed their coats and were settled comfortably for the evening.

The Thompsons liked the house—which they said they'd had some difficulty in finding, it being such a bad night, and "But isn't this room rather hard to heat?" Mr. Thompson asked.

"Not particularly," said Philip. "There's a gas furnace."

"Converted from a coal furnace, or a new one?"

"Why, I guess it's a new one; the house is new."

Mr. Thompson nodded approval. "They're not so bad. Expensive, of course. But I wouldn't have one of those converted things on the place. Complete nuisance. Don't you think so, Minnie?"

"What did you say, dear?" The first strains of the berceuse from "Jocelyn" had drowned out the question. Philip leaned over and cut Anne's favorite song short with a click of the knob. "Sorry. I forgot that was on."

"I said I wouldn't have a converted gas furnace."

"Oh, no," Mrs. Thompson agreed. "I wouldn't either. They use up so much gas."

"Have you seen the Lanes lately?" Mrs. Thompson asked after a moment's silence. When the Raiders had denied having seen the Lanes, Mr. Thompson asked after Mary.

"Oh, she's just fine. Asleep by now, I hope." Anne started to say something more, but the Thompsons were not really interested in Mary. Mrs. Thompson said, "Are you still with Jean in the shop, Mr. Raider?"

Anne looked surprised. "Oh, no," she said. "I've kept my interest because Jean didn't want another partner, but I haven't time for it now."

Philip suppressed a smile. If Mrs. Thompson had wanted to embarrass Anne by this reference to her having been a beauty operator, she must be disappointed. She probably hadn't meant anything, though. There was a short silence; then Mr. Thompson spoke.

"What do you think of the daylight saving argument, Doctor?"

You are studious, intellectual, cautious, discreet, and have a keen and alert mind. You are considerate of others, shrewd and honest; love travel and out-of-door sports. Your home is dear to you, and your love is strong and ardent. But your best behavior on parade on this Sabbath. Help out at a church supper or services. Start planning on the budget for next year.

to determined and concentrated effort of beckoning projects or new plans and programs. Yet there is distinct danger from a too abrupt attack on such factors, with an impulse to snap judgment, or a jump in the wrong direction. This might bring about harsh words, misunderstandings or estrangements.

For the Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which their alert and quickened spirit of enterprise and initiative, is prodded by excellent openings at hand, luring to decisive action. While the ideas and purpose may be built on practical lines for enduring and constructive futures, yet there is an inner urge to act from impulses and emotions, rather than from calm judgment. This may alienate those ready to cooperate or otherwise inclined to give encouragement. Shun hasty words and deeds.

A child born on this day is well endowed with skills, ideas and plans for success, but high success might be imperiled by ungoverned emotions or impulses.

"Didn't you see me signal with spades on the second and third club tricks?" he asked West. He had put the spade 8 on the first of those tricks and the 2 on the second.

"If you had obeyed that signal, and led a spade when you got in with your jack of clubs," East said, "I would have won with the ace and returned the ten to your suit. We would have trapped the king then and would have scored four diamond tricks. Those plus the spade and club would have set him two tricks."

True enough. But East could not do anything after West explained: "I didn't notice your signal."

Miss Mettler Invited To Meet English Queen

Teacher Writes Of Experiences In England

Experiences in England are told in an interesting letter from Miss Helen Mettler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mettler, Laurelville, and sister of Mrs. William Goodchild, Beverly road.

Miss Mettler, former teacher in the Fostoria schools, is an exchange instructor in Queenswood school, Hatfield, Herts, England. She was one of the teachers chosen for one year's teaching in England by the U. S. department of education.

A letter, written December 14 to Mr. and Mrs. Mettler, tells of receiving an invitation, given by Lady Astor, for her to be present at a tea in honor of her "Majesty the Queen". The affair was to take place on December 19. "I am the envy of the staff of teachers here," Miss Mettler was told by a member of the staff she would have to curtsy. Her answer was, "we do not do that in our country and leave that privilege to the English people."

She wrote, "People are always asking, 'Don't you think we English people are old fashioned?' When I confirm the answer—it sets them back." Miss Mettler asked a friend over there for some bulletins pertaining to education but there is nothing of that type available there. A few of the English, when visiting Ohio State University and various training centers around Columbus, were astonished at the quantity of available educational material in the United States.

In writing of Christmas greetings from home, "I read every thing, from cover to cover. Magazines here are very poor—of course that is due to paper shortage."

She wrote of holiday plans, "First to see that my visa is in good order, then—we leave London, the 21st for Dover, cross the Straits, and land in Ostend Brussels. Will arrive on the 22nd at Chur, Switzerland, and plan to stay over night in the Drei Koenige hotel. Then on to Sedrun Grisons, Switzerland, on the 23rd, and will stay in hotel Oberalp. Sedrun is a small mountain village on the Furka Oberalp railway, which climbs up 6300 feet. What a vacation. I plan to stop in Paris on the way back."

Miss Mettler wrote that she had been congratulated on grading papers by the headmistress; that they had checked the questions, with the answers. "The English people just do not feel we might be as thorough as they are."

In concluding the letter she wrote of the fog. The sun was shining that day, the first in a long time.

The Scioto Valley Grange members and friends are holding a combined Christmas and New Year's party at the grange hall, Tuesday, December 21. Honored guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cordray, grange members for 30 years who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

After wondering for some time why a local hybrid seed corn man had given me a quart of fire extinguisher fluid for Christmas, I learned the reason when I discovered that he is selling fire extinguishers. That's what I call creating a demand. Maybe I could just throw the can in case of a fire and save buying an extinguisher after all.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Poultry experts say that the white meat of chicken is good for you because it contains niacin, the important anti-pellagra B vitamin. It compares favorably with pork and beef liver which are among the highest sources of this vitamin. The dark meat, on the other hand, contains more riboflavin and thiamine than white meat, so it, too, is good for you.

MODERN COUNTRY HOME WITH SMALL ACREAGE

This exclusive listing is located on state route 752 about 5 miles east of Ashville with 23.5 acres of highly productive soil. There is an abundance of fruit trees, grape vines, and flowers. The water supply is excellent with a good water pressure system. The house is a good 8 room frame with a full basement, hot air furnace, bath, electricity, telephone, and has a slate roof. There is also a garage, corn crib, cattle shed and wood house on this farm. This property is now vacant. IMMEDIATE POSSESSION.

KINGSTON

The Senior class of the Kingston high school is sponsoring a 50-50 dance to be held in the high school auditorium, Thursday evening, Dec. 26, at 8 o'clock. Montgomery's orchestra will play.

Mrs. Don Spiller and baby son were removed to their home, Friday, from the Chillicothe hospital, in the Hill invalid coach.

The Kingston Parent Teachers organization held the December meeting in the high school auditorium, Friday afternoon. The girls' ensemble sang Christmas carols and the operetta "Is Santa Real" was presented by the pupils of the grade school. Each grade was represented in the play.

The Kingston Redskins won over Southeastern on the home floor, Friday night. The score was 40-25. The reserves also won, with a score of 16-15.

George Sibrell of Miami University is spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reese Sibrell.

Mrs. James Reisinger, who was injured in an automobile accident, two weeks ago, was removed to her home, Friday, from Mercy hospital, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder left Sunday to spend the holidays with their daughter and husband, Capt. and Mrs. Fred Gearhart, of Columbus, Ga.

The Westminster Youth Fellowship group of the Presbyterian church presented a program of Christmas carols, in a candlelight service at the church, Sunday, at 4:30 P.M. The carols were sung by the choir, with Mrs. F. V. Graves describing each carol. Margaret Cobb sang a solo "When the Prince of Peace was Born", accompanied by Mrs. D. N. Famulener.

Warner Cowans left Monday to visit over the holidays with his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leeman Rout, of Skyway Park, Osborn. He will also visit with another daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jamison of Fairfield.

Members of the Presbyterian church held a party for the young people, in the lower room of the church, Monday evening. Santa Claus was present and gave each child a gift and candy. Ice cream bars were also served to each one present. The Westminster Youth

MISS BRINKLEY IS BRIDE OF C. C. CHAPPELEAR

On December 22 at 2:30 p. m. in the Indianola Methodist church Columbus Miss Norma Jane Brinkley daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brinkley, Sixteenth avenue, Columbus, became the bride of Crede Cameron Chapplelear, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton W. Chapplelear, North Fourth street, Columbus.

The Rev. George S. Lackland, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The altar was decorated in poinsettias and lighted tapers lined the aisle of the church. Mr. Brinkley gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride chose for her wedding, a gown of satin, with an oval neckline outlined by a fold of satin, long sleeves coming to points over her wrists and a full skirt ending in a train. The double fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls, she carried a colonial bouquet centered with an orchid.

Miss Margaret Brinkley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue marquisette dress with a yellow shoulder-length veil. Miss Mary Ellen Greshel, bridesmaid, wore yellow marquisette with a blue veil. Both attendants carried colonial bouquets.

Thornton Chapplelear, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and two other brothers, John and David Chapplelear, were ushers.

A reception at the home of the brides parents followed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Chapplelear, is a graduate of North high school, and attended Ohio State University. Mr. Chapplelear was graduated from North high school, and is a student at Ohio State University. He served two years in the Navy, 18 months of which were spent overseas. The couple resides at 102 Sixteenth avenue, Columbus.

The bridegroom is a grandson of the late Senator and Mrs. C. C. Chapplelear, Circleville.

PLAN WATCH PARTY

A watch party will be held Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kern and daughter, Helen, Jackson township, for members of Christ Lutheran Ladies Society and Luther League. The group will have a pot-luck supper at 7:30 p. m. followed by a short business meeting.

GOP BOOSTERS MEMBERS HAVE HOLIDAY PARTY

Members of the G. O. P. Boosters, met in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Styers, South Pickaway street, Thursday, for their Christmas dinner party. Mrs. Ruth E. Wignel, president, was in charge of the business meeting, which opened with the pledge of allegiance and the group singing America.

Mrs. Wignel, presented a reading, "What Christmas Means to All of Us." Christmas carols were sung by the members, accompanied by Miss Ruth Styers at the piano. A gift exchange was held during the social hour, with names drawn for the coming year. The club members voted to make this an annual party. Games were played with prizes awarded to Miss Lenore Hundley and Mrs. Wignel.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Edna Smith. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Blanche Mavis, 423 Half avenue, on January 30.

NEWARK SPOILS CAGE RECORD OF MIDDLETOWN

Wildcats Will Try To Snap Hamilton Victory String In Game Tonight

By International News Service
A high school basketball dynasty was smashed to bits today and a red hot Newark Wildcat quintet sought to turn in a grand slam weekend of giant killing.

The Wildcats nosed out Middletown, 46 to 43, last night. The defeat was the state champion Middies' first in 31 starts and snapped a five game streak for the current season.

The Middies had raced to state class "A" titles in 1944 and last year and lost to Bellevue in the 1945 tournament finals.

Newark was well qualified to administer the epic defeat. The Wildcats are three-time state champions in their own right, winning the last crown in 1943. The current aggregation, coached by Max Douglas, was hitting the comeback trail after a loss to Coshocton a week ago.

Tonight, the Wildcats tackled Hamilton, unbeaten in five impressive outings.

Another upset was recorded in a four-team tournament at Springfield where Dayton Stivers finally hit the victory trail at the expense of one-defeated Springfield, 43 to 37, Toledo Waite trounced New Philadelphia, 35 to 28, in the other tourney game.

A tournament at Lima saw Toledo Woodward remain in the unbeaten class with a 57-48 win over Lorain and Findlay defeat Lima Central, 45 to 30.

SHRINE GAME SQUADS ARE NEARING TOP FORM

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—East and West Shrine grid squads were rounding into peak form today for their New Year's day game at Kezar stadium.

The easterners were apparently preparing for a power offensive under the guidance of head coach Andy Kerr. Indiana's juggernaut, Pete Pihos and Purdue's chunky Ed Cody were doing most of the ball-packing in scrimmage sessions and looking in top form.

The West squad, meanwhile, came up to full strength with the belated arrival of Hubert Bechtol, all-American end from Texas.

NYU COACH QUILTS
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The board of athletic control at New York University today sought a successor to Jack Weinheimer, who resigned yesterday after serving as football coach since 1944.

ASHVILLE WIN STREAK HALTED

Canal Winchester Scores 25-21 Over Pickaway County Cagers

Ashville high school's basketball victory string was stopped at nine Friday night when Canal Winchester won 25-21.

The game at Canal Winchester was close all the way with the home team leading most of the time. At the end of the first period it was 5-2, at the half the score was 8-8 and at the three-quarter mark Ashville trailed by a point, 12-13.

R. Hanners and D. Hartman led Canal Winchester with 9 and 8 points respectively. Don Thomas had 7 for Ashville.

Canal Winchester also won the reserve game, 20-15.

Ashville's next game will be Friday, January 3, when Darby township visits the Ashville floor for a Pickaway county league game.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 28.—For the first time in the history of the two schools, the UCLA and Illinois football squads will practice on Sunday in preparation for their New Year's day battle in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

An agreement to practice was reached by the rivals yesterday after rains of the past few days had curtailed much of the squads' activities.

C & O TO USE ROLLER BEARINGS FREIGHT CARS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28—The Chesapeake & Ohio railway company took the initial step today to introduce into railroading the first largescale utilization of roller bearings in freight-car operations.

C. & O. officials announced that in a joint inquiry with the Nickel Plate road bl.s have been invited on 2,600 new all-steel units of freight car equipment. Included will be 1,000 70-ton hopper cars to be equipped with roller bearings for use on the C. & O.

A loaded freight car equipped with roller bearings, line officials explained, can be started with one-eighth the power required for a similar car equipped with friction bearings.

With roller bearing cars in service, they added, it might be possible to handle a train of the same number of 70-ton capacity cars fully loaded with the same locomotive now required to handle a similar number of 50-ton capacity cars.

Roller bearings also will insure easier running, the statement said, making possible higher speeds and virtually eliminating hot journal boxes.

EXPLORING UNKNOWN

"Mind and Crime," the story of a suspected paranoic-schizoid on trial for murder, will be presented on "Exploring the Unknown," Sunday, at 9 p. m. The play will deal with the prisoner being subjected to psychological, neurological, psychometric and personality tests and then being committed to a mental hospital rather than a penal institution.

BUMSTEADS

Things become very confused at the Bumstead home, when "Blondie's Hasty Present" gets Dagwood in a jam with his boss, in the comedy drama, Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

"Sherlock Holmes" played by Tom Conway, comes out of retirement to solve a weird crime involving voodoo rites, in the "Singular Affair of the White Cockerel," on the mystery series Saturday, at 9:30 p. m.

THEATER OF THE AIR

The rollicking story of a Cincinnati beer baron and his lovely daughter, Nell, will be recounted in song and drama when the "Chicago Theater Of The Air" presents Gustav Leauder's operetta, "The Prince of Pilsen," on the broadcast Saturday, 10-11 p. m., EST, over Mutual.

FRED ALLEN SHOW

Fred Allen will have an early New Year's greeting ready for Oscar Levant when the noted humorist, composer and actor pays a visit to Allen's Alley on Sunday, at 8:30 p. m., EST, over NBC. Helping them to celebrate will be the Allen's Alley regulars "Senator Claghorn" (Kenny Delmar), "Mrs. Nussbaum" (Minerva Pious), "Ti-

JACK BENNY SHOW

The Jack Benny program, Sunday, (7 p. m. EST over NBC), will find the devil-may-care spendthrift and his cast celebrating the advent of 1947 with a New Year's Eve party, complete with dime store favors carefully preserved from last year. Benny is in a gala mood, dampened only slightly by another approaching birthday, as the guests arrive at his house for the evening's festivities. And as the hours pass, the gay Jackson suddenly throws caution to the winds and invites the whole gang to finish the fun at a night club—on him—in the most historic gesture of 1946.

CHARLIE MCCARTHY

Genial Charlie Ruggles will pay a return New Year's visit to Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen, Sunday at 8 p. m. (EST) over NBC. The complete cast of the Bergen-McCarthy Show, also including Mortimer Snerd, Vocalist Anita Gordon, Ray Gordon, Ray
